WAR WITH FRANCE, CRY IN GERMANY

Berlin, Jan. 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Recording the arrival of the French at Bochum, the Lokal-Anzeiger says all work immediately ceased and excitement prevailed. The Communists, it adds, began distributing leaflets advocating war with France and demanding the resignation of Chancellor Cuno.

JESSE MURPHY'S TRIAL POSTPONED

JESSE MURPHY

The trial of Jesse Murphy for the murders of Ordway R. Hall and William T. Foley for which George and Charles Rollins were convicted, was postponed one week today because counsel for the accused, John W. Connelly and William R. Scharton, were appearing in Federal Court.

DE VALERA PLANNING BIG COUP

Dublin Man, on Visit Here, Says Free State Will Be Overthrown by Easter

Bernard Halligan, Dublin business man, who spent three months in Mountjoy Prison with Rory O'Connor and Liam Mellows, declared today that plans are completed for the overthrow of the Free State and that Eamon De Valera is in Dublin waiting the moment when he will step forth as head of the recognized Irish Republic.

"I cannot tell you the plans of the republic," said Mr. Halligan, "but we know that we will be in control by next Easter Sunday. That is assured. It cannot fail, and De Valera will be the recognized head of the republic.

"All this talk of his being in America is bunk. He is in Dublin and will stay there. Any minute now the Irish republic plans may materialize and he dares not leave for he will be needed to step into power."

NUMBER PLATES FOR 225,000 AUTOS

State Registrar Frank A. Goodwin today announced that 225,000 auto number plates for 1923 had been issued. That is 45,000 in excess of the number registered at this time last year. The increase is entirely in pleasure cars. The truck licenses total 41,000, about the same as last year. Fees already paid in total $2,500,000, an increase of $500,000.

900 FREIGHT CARS ON B. & M. SNOWBOUND

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 15.—Trainmen were working nearly waist deep in snow here today in their efforts to move 900 freight cars held up by snow in the local railroad yards. Many of the cars are stuck fast, railway officials said.

With more snow falling today, the depth on the level was measured at 31 inches.

LOWELL RUNAWAYS HELD IN NEWTON

George Chin, fourteen years old, of No. 113 Lawrence street, and Daniel McNulty, sixteen years old, of No. 118 Lawrence street, both of Lowell, set out to see the world last Saturday with $2.50 between them. They are today waiting in the Newton police station for their parents. All of the $2.50 went for food, and the pair were so well filled up when they arrived at the station that they refused a box of candy offered by one of the policemen.

COAL KINGS GUILTY OF EXTORTION

Federal Board Finds the Mine Owners and Brokers Are Getting Excessive Profits

Washington, Jan. 15.—Instability in the bituminous coal mining industry is the fundamental cause of high prices and the fuel shortage which has menaced the American public repeatedly in recent years, the United States Coal Commission held today, in a preliminary report of its fact-finding investigation laid before Congress.

"There has been profiteering in the industry in the sense that grossly exorbitant profits have been taken at times by many operators, brokers and retailers; profits that have been disproportionate to the cost of the coal," the report said in part.

A thorough examination of profits is already under way.

"Runaway markets for coal in 1920 and 1922," the commission continued, "followed prolonged cessation of mining operations due to disagreement between employers

3 DRINK POLISH AND DROP DEAD

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 15.—Brass rail polish, tossed off in mistake for hootch, is believed to have caused the death of three men who dropped dead in a saloon.

An undertaker said the effect of cyanide of potassium was very pronounced in the bodies. He believes that the deadly acid was an ingredient of the polish and that James Boris, one of the victims who had bought the place a few days ago, had not had time to familiarize himself with his stock of bottled goods and served the polish in mistake for whisky.

KILLS BABY AS SHE PRAYS FOR ITS LIFE

New York, Jan. 15.—Three-year-old Lena Colona was ill. Doctors did not seem to be able to help and Mrs. Olympia Colona knelt before the illuminated altar in her home.

"I will pray for the life of my baby," she sobbed to her husband as he went to telephone for a doctor. "I will pray hard." She prayed, but her elbow accidently touched an oil lamp. The lamp fell over and exploded, spreading flaming oil in every direction. Their one-year old baby was smothered by smoke.

SHIP IN DISTRESS OFF CAPE RACE

Halifax, N. S. Jan. 15.—The Norwegian freight steamer Hobre en route from Norfolk, Va., to Aalborg, Sweden, reported today by wireless that she was in distress about 200 miles south of Cape Race. The oil tanker Joseph Seep sent word that she was proceeding to the Hobre's assistance.

SPURNS MEDAL FOR SAVING 3 LIVES

North Adams, Jan. 15.—Two medals offered him by the Massachusetts Humane Society for saving three women for drowning in Windsor Lake two years ago were refused today by Postmaster M. O. Haggerty. He informed the society in reply to a request for certain information regarding his heroic deed that he did not desire a reward. He was attracted to the women in the water as they floundered helplessly while attempting to swim out in the lake beyond their depth. He effected the rescue with the help of a friend.

INDICT WOMAN FOR INN SLAYING

Mineola, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Mrs. Mary Wells was indicted on a charge of second degree murder today, after an investigation into the death of James W. Pettit, proprietor of the Masonpequa Inn, who was found dead of a gun-shot wound on the night of January 7.

Dusseldorf, Jan. 15 (By the Associated Press): France's answer to the German mine owners' refusal to deliver coal on any terms was to extend the zone of occupation, originally intended to cover only the Bochum region. The new line established by General Degoutte's forces is from fifteen to twenty kilometers further eastward, coming to the edge of the great industrial city of Dortmund. This encircles all the Ruhr industries of Hugo Stinnes.

Essen, Jan. 15 (By the Associated Press).—The German mine directors notified the French Control Commission today that they must refuse to resume deliveries of coal on the reparations account, even in return for cash payments, on the ground that they were in receipt of an order from the German Federal Coal Commissioner forbidding such action.

The refusal was contained in the reply to a written order from General Denvignes, which was delivered individually to the directors, ordering each to resume deliveries in accordance with the reparations program.

The mine directors committee, in delivering their reply at a conference with the Control Commission called attention to the fact that the agreement reached on Saturday for resumption of deliveries for cash had been made with the reservation that it would not stand in case the Federal Commissioner ordered otherwise, which he now had done.

TURKS MOVE TO CAST OFF DEBT

Lausanne, Jan. 15 (By the Associated Press).—The Turkish delegation to the Near East conference today proposed that the Ottoman debt, both principal and interest, be divided among Turkey as at present constituted and the so-called Succession States, or territories detached from Turkey since the World War.

M. Bombard, chairman of the sub-commission on finance, and a member of the French delegation, said the allies would examine the proposal. M. Bombard plans to leave for Paris on Wednesday to discuss the situation with Premier Poincare.

MILWAUKEE LEADS IN WOODEN SHOES

New York, Jan. 15.—Milwaukee today leads in the manufacture of wooden shoes.

Two plants with a normal annual output of 25,000 pairs produce a large variety of shoes, from the old pantoffle to bathing sandals. Cities throughout the United States and Canada get their supply here, as there is only one other city in the country manufacturing the same articles on a large scale.

Essen, Jan. 15.—The anti-French demonstration today included a 30-minute strike throughout the Rhine-land at noon. The French did not attempt to interfere. Thousands of workmen stood bareheaded in the

GIRL GETS KU KLUX THREAT

Miss Nolan of East Boston Is Warned on Phone to Join or "Beware!"

Miss Catherine Nolan sat reading a paper in the parlor of her home, on Paris street, East Boston. The telephone rang. She answered.

"Have a voice. Is this Miss Catherine Nolan?"

"Yes."

"I want you to join my lodge."

"Are you trying to kid me? I don't know you."

"I am very serious. I mean the Invisible Ku Klux Klan."

Miss Nolan laughed and inquired as to the identity of the speaker. Then in a sinister tone came the words:

"I am serious. I will give you until 6 o'clock. If you see fit to join all right. If you don't you will be sorry. Beware——"

Miss Nolan screamed and fainted.

Five minutes later, while her family was still excited the telephone bell jingled. A sister answered.

The same voice: "Tell your sister that she is to be given until 6 o'clock. If she wants to accept, let her be at Beacon and Bowdoin streets at 6 o'clock. Two men wearing fur coats will be glad to accept her. Tell her to beware."

Miss Nolan's brother and a friend went instead. Neither they nor a

BILL AGAINST KU KLUX KLAN REPORTED IN HOUSE

An order denouncing the Ku Klux Klan and demanding that steps be taken by the Commonwealth against the masked terrorizers was favorably reported in the House of Representatives today by the House Committee on Rules. The order characterized the Klan as "a menace to the lives and property of the people."

3 Months in Rum Case

Walter Andeskk, of No. 47 Pearl street, Chelsea, was fined $100 and sentenced to three months in jail today when he was convicted in the Chelsea District Court of illegal sale of liquor. He appealed.

streets singing "Deutchland Uber Alles."

Violent anti-French speeches were made.

A mob surrounded the Kaiserhof (French headquarters) singing anti-French songs and shaking their fists at photographers on the balcony. One reporter, who laughed at the German demonstration, was nearly lynched.

Fritz Thyssen, son of the coal and iron magnate, August Thyssen, and spokesman for the mine owners, defied the French, saying: "We are Germans, subject only to German laws. We must obey our country."

Heavy Fighting in Memel Reported

Berlin, Jan. 15 (By the Associated Press).—Dispatches to the Lokal Anzeiger report heavy fighting in Memel, the Baltic area recently invaded by Lithuanian irregulars. The Lithuanians, the messages assert, are in almost complete possession.

French Troops Stoned on Entering Buer

Paris, Jan. 15.—When the French troops entered Buer they were greeted with a shower of stones. No one was injured.

The French general announced the chief of police would be punished.

'Half-Hour Strike" Failure in Cologne

Cologne, Jan. 15 (By the Associated Press).—The half-hour strike today in protest against the French occupation was largely a failure here, while the "two minutes of silence" was largely ignored.

The extreme patriots doffed their hats for the required time, others maintained silence, but occupied the time in lounging and smoking, while the great bulk of the people went about their pursuits as usual. The chief mark of protest was the tolling of the great bell in the Cathedral.

45,000 Men, All Whites, in French Operation

Washington, Jan. 15.—The French Embassy informed the State Department today that five divisions, a total of 45,000 men, all whites, would take part in the new move to "insure control over the Bochum district."

Lithuanians at Memel War Only on Germans

Copenhagen, Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—Lithuanian insurgents who invaded the neutral district at Memel have sent a note to the allied control commission declaring the movement was directed solely against Germany and asking the French to refrain from "any act of war," said a dispatch from Dantzig today.

The Lithuanians promised protection to the residents of the Memel district and the allied officials. General Simonaitis, the Lithuanian commander, has proclaimed himself head of the Memel government."

Mussolini Protests on French "Invasion"

Paris, Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—Premier Mussolini of Italy is reported to have sent a note to Premier Poincare protesting vigorously against continued independent action in the Rhineland without consulting Italy. The note states that while Italy favors measures of control, she does not countenance seizure of private property. Mussolini was said to have charged the French with adopting a program of invasion that is "excessive and harmful to the cause of pacification and economic restoration in Europe."

The note insisted that in the future the Italian reparations program be given greated consideration.

Germans in Mourning Throughout Rhineland

Essen, Jan. 15. (By International News Service).—This was a day of German mourning in all the occupied territory in the Rhineland. Black was conspicuously displayed as a protest against French occupation. Sunday had been selected as the national day of mourning.

More "Penalties" for Germans Tomorrow

Paris, Jan. 16.—(By the Associated Press)—It seemed certain today that Germany would be declared in default for her 1923 deliveries of merchandise at a meeting of the reparations commission which has been called for tomorrow.

Bulletins

CONSTANTINOPLE—An official communique issued by the Angora government says: "British airplanes are actively bombing villages in the neighborhood of Mosul, especially Rewandux, Bagna, Massoures, Mourbeli and Nameyes. Four of the plane were brought down."

BERLIN (By International News Service) — The government announced today that Germany is ready to discuss reparations with all the allies, but not with the French alone, in event another conference is called.

PARIS—The Rumanian Minister today made formal protest to the French Foreign Office against massing of Hungarian troops on the Rumanian frontier. Foreign Office officials promised the military commission in Budapest would investigate.

BERLIN (By International News Service). — Lithuanian irregulars captured Memel today, disarming the handful of French guards on duty there, said a telephone message from Koenigsberg. It is believed several persons were killed.

Mayence — French military authorities today completed their plans for occupying the Coblenz bridgehead when the Americans move out Wednesday.

New York—The German mark sold here today at 13,000 to the dollar. The normal, or pre-war, price of the mark was 23.8 cents each.

Paris—Premier Poincare today conferred with Finance Minister De Lasteyrie upon the advisability of substituting the French franc for the German mark in the occupied regions.

EXTORTION IN COAL PRICES CHARGED and employes, but high prices also ruled from August, 1916, to March, 1918, and for that period some other explanation of the high prices and distress must be found."

Six members of the commission, John Hays Hammond, chairman; Dr. George Otis Smith, former director of the Geological Survey; Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution; former Vice-President Marshall, Charles P. Neill, and Dr. Edward T. Devine, signed the report as rendered, while Federal Judge Alschuler, whose judicial tenure has prevented his qualifying formally for service as commissioner, attached a memorandum approving the views of his colleagues.

The commission was created by Congress after the 1922 coal strike to investigate the entire coal problem.

Labor troubles, transportation difficulties, and over-development in the industry in mines and manpower to a point where it is much larger than necessary to supply public demand for its product—if operations were continuous—were all three assigned as among primary causes for the condition. The exact bearing which these have upon the existing situation, the commission said, it intended to study in its further inquiry.

Regarding the possibility of an other general coal strike after April 1, the report said the commission "has reason to believe that an agreement will be reached in the near future that will avert any widespread cessation of mine operations in union fields on April 1."

The commission added that its work in promoting industrial peace by ascertaining and publishing reliable data on wages, earnings, employment volume, profits and costs involved in coal production will proceed with that understanding.

In the report reference was made to the exchange of communications between the commission, miners' union officials and representatives of operators which has lessened the danger of the strike prospect.

"There can be no satisfactory agreement as to wage rates, and no lasting peace between operators and men unless steadier employment can be provided. There can be no satisfactory solution of our transportation problem so long as the railroads are subjected to sudden peak loads of coal traffic at the season when the demands of agriculture and industry are at their height," the report added.

With anthracite coal problems, the preliminary report dealt only briefly.

Search would continue, it was said into the reasons which left the United States, though "rich beyond all other nations in its wealth of coal resources," with "a national coal bill too often depleted," with prices "higher than seem warranted by the wealth of coal available," and with general public concern and dissatisfaction as to fuel supply.

Capitalists Plan New War

Moscow, Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—French military occupation of the Ruhr is a move on the part of European capitalists to launch a new war, it was charged today by officials of the Soviet government who appealed to French workers to "strike and prevent Premier Poincare from rushing them into another war."

HUNT "HATCHET MAN" WHO SHOT PRISCILLA

Miss Dean was not seriously hurt, the bullet making a flesh wound in her shoulder. The shot was fired by one Chinaman at another during the filming of a big Chinese scene, but the aim was poor, and Miss Dean was the victim.

Klansmen in Methuen Elude U. S. Agents

Haverhill, Jan. 15.—While three parties of Department of Justice agents hunted the city for them, citizens wearing the hoods and cloaks of the Ku Klux Klan met at a farmhouse and performed their ritual on the Lawrence road, between Bradley's Brook and Methuen.

The city is aroused by the situation. The Klan was made the subject of a sermon by Rev. J. A. O'Brien, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, who called on Catholics openly to profess their religion and defy "the organization of bigots, which is attempting to split the country into religious factions."

Department of Justice agents flocked to Haverhill when informed that Klan organizers from Boston and Portland were planning to organize a Haverhill Klavern.

A posse went directly to Assembly Hall, where the meeting was scheduled to have been held. A guard was posted there, but no members appeared.

The agents then organized searching parties, but the Klansmen had evidently been warned.

Information was secured by a Department of Justice investigator that a man named "Patterson," a Klan organizer, has been working in Haverhill for the last month. A professional ball player is alleged to be the leader of the movement in Haverhill.

Rev. James T. O'Reilly, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Lawrence, issued a statement following reports that he had been threatened in a Klan letter. The statement follows:

"There is absolutely no truth to any of the stories with the exception of the one which mentioned that church property is protected. That protection, however, is strictly precautionary, not because we fear or expect any trouble. As for myself I have no bodyguard or other protection personally nor do I want any."

VICTIM OF TONG WAR

Los Angeles, Jan. 15.—The mountains between here and Universal City were searched today for a Chinese "hatchet man" who wounded Priscilla Dean, fair young screen star, in an attempt at a Tong war assassination at Universal City.

The police name one Ah Sing as the would-be slayer, who shot at some intended victim, narrowly missed Wong Foo, a Chinese actor, and slightly wounded Miss Dean in the right shoulder.

The screen actress rested comfortably today at her home. She suffered merely a flesh wound, no bone or nerve having been injured.

The intended victim probably owes his life to the fact that the "hatchet man," who slipped into the filming of a big Chinatown scene, lost his footing on the slope of a roof just as he fired. But this deflection of aim sent the bullet through Miss Dean's shoulder.

OLLIE CHILL IS GRILLED IN MURDER

Cleveland, Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—Ollie Chill, American League umpire, George Roedl, and Andrew C. Burke, a contractor, were questioned today by police in an effort to solve the murder of Edward J. McGregor, twenty-six years old, found shot to death in an apartment in Euclid avenue.

No formal charges have been made against the three men. Although grilled almost constantly for twenty-four hours, they maintain they do not know how McGregor met his death.

"I was too drunk to know what happened," police say Chill answered to all questions, and the others replied in like manner. They said they heard two shots fired, but did not know McGregor was dead until informed by police.

McGregor, a World War veteran, had brought home with him from overseas an Italian pistol. This weapon was kept hanging on the wall of the apartment where he lived with Roedl, a "buddy" of war times, and it was with it that McGregor was killed.

Joseph F. Johnson, a taxi driver, told of picking the men up downtown and driving them to the apartment. He entered with them and said a quarrel followed about who should serve drinks and in this fight Chill was knocked down by McGregor.

Johnson said he left before the murder took place.

Chill Through as an Umpire, Says Johnson

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Ollie Chill, questioned by Cleveland police in connection with the death of Edward J. McGregor, is through as a big league umpire, Ban Johnson, president of the American League, declared.

"We are no longer interested in Chill," Mr. Johnson said. "I had made up my mind to make a change and had already selected Chill's successor." He said the new umpire's name would be announced in a few days.

A number of years ago Chill was a professional boxer. He used the name Jack Ryan.

AWARD COLLECTOR ACCIDENT VERDICT

Collectors and other out-of-door workers are not excluded from the benefits of the Workingmen's Compensation Act, according to a 4 to 3 decision of the Massachusetts Supreme Court today. By the decision, Henry A. Cook, employed by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, is awarded $422.86 for injuries received while on his way to the Boston office of the company to make his weekly report.

The decision follows a year of litigation. The disagreement was on the question of whether Cook was actually working at the time of the accident.

LINER RESCUES SCHOONER'S CREW

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 15.—Five men, members of the crew of the schooner Ida M. Cunningham were safely taken by the Canadian Pacific liner Metagama today after they had been taken from the disabled vessel sixty miles south of here. The schooner was still afloat but in such a position as to menace navigation.

CANADA TO DRIVE KU KLUX KLAN FROM COUNTRY

ORDERS TO ARREST SPONSORS ON SIGHT

Announcement Comes as Result of Another Mysterious Fire in Catholic Church

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—An attempt to destroy St. Mary's Roman Catholic Cathedral at Hamilton, Ont., by fire today was followed by a decision of the Canadian government to probe reports that the Ku Klux Klan is conducting a campaign of incendiarism against Catholic church property.

Today's was the third Catholic church fire in several weeks.

St. Mary's Cathedral was one of the oldest churches in Canada. Attorney-General Hanéy told International News Service today that "the Ku Klux Klan will not be tolerated on this side of the border."

He gave orders to arrest any person agitating in Canada in behalf of the Klan.

In some places in Eastern Canada special guards are being employed to watch Catholic property.

Sheriff Is Star Witness in Klan Murders

By International News Service.

Courthouse, Bastrop, La., Jan. 15.—By calling Sheriff Fred A. Carpenter as a "surprise" witness in the open hearing today, the State of Louisiana "burned the bridges behind members of a 'hooded mob,'" which smashed its way into the home of Alonzo L. Braddock, Morehouse Parish farmer, to carry him away a prisoner, last summer.

Braddock blamed this outrage on Ku Klux Klansmen and identified six members of the mob. The crime is a capital offence with hanging as the penalty in Louisiana.

NEW WITNESS FOUND.

The itinerant tourist who was the last person outside the hooded mob" murder band to see the bodies of Watt Daniel and Thomas Richards before they were tossed into Lake LaFourche has been found by State authorities.

His identity is being held a secret. He was described today as the "last link" in the State's case against the "hooded mob" slayers, as he saw the murderers carrying the bodies of their victims to the lake.

DISCOVER TORTURE RACK.

Mer Rouge, La., Jan. 15.—A ponderous machine, wrought from iron and wood, was found today by International News Service buried deep in the bottom of Lake La Fourche, where the tortured bodies of Watt Daniel and Thomas F. Richards were tossed by their "hooded mob" murderers, almost five months ago.

Authorities believe this machine is the improvised "torture rack" used by the "hooded mob" in cruelly killing Daniel and Richards.

This "torture rack," according to the State pathologists, broke the twelve principal bones in each victim's body with a mathematical exactness.

HOMES OF FREE STATERS RAIDED

Dublin, Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—Indiscriminate attacks by Republican raiders against the homes of Irish leaders of nearly all factions were reported from various parts of the Free State today. While no killings were reported, the Republicans demolished furniture, wrecked buildings and caused much fright.

Opera Star Silent on Divorce

GERALDINE FARRAR

FARRAR BOOED BY WOMEN IN LYNN

Melrose "Gerry" Farrar, appearing in a public concert at Lynn, hit the last high note of the third number of her program, obeyed the book of an usher, walked to the footlights and was presented a huge bouquet of roses bearing a card, "With Best Wishes.' Lou Tellegen!"

Tellegen, the Adonis of the stage, and Geraldine, one-time idol of continents, are settling domestic differences behind the closed doors of a New York divorce court.

REFUSES INTERVIEW.

Whether the floral offering was an attempt at conciliation by Tellegen, whether the flowers and inscription were the work of a funster, or whether the bouquet was a bit of "hokum" engineered by the star to "claque" her own performance, and the card merely an exercise of "Gerry's" private sense of humor, was not determined.

It was well nigh impossible to learn anything of "Gerry" or her doings, so perverse was the temperamental diva's mood. She point blank refused to be interviewed and declared she wished nothing to do with this "——— newspapermen."

SILENT ON DIVORCE.

"Gerry" became so peeved at repeated attempts to "talk things over" that a mild disorder ensued, which was featured by the "booing" of scores of women and the intervention of the police.

The former Melrose girl found a crowd of more than 400 admirers and thrill-seekers at the stage door when she concluded her concert at Gordon's Olympia. She bolted for her auto, while reporters waylaid her with questions.

"How about your divorce, Miss Farrar?" she was asked.

"It is none of your business," she replied promptly. A flurry of questions was directed at her, as the crowd, made up mainly of women followed in the car. One woman shouted: "Why don't you talk to the newspapermen, Gerry. They are just as good as you. Tell them the real story."

PROTEST SERVICE CHARGE

Suburban Gas and Light Consumers Crowd Hearing and Demand Action

The service charge, as an outrageous scheme to keep up the extortionate war prices of gas and electricity, was denounced by the people of Malden, Melrose, Medford, Everett, Revere and Winthrop today at a protest hearing before the State Department of Public Utilities.

"If you want to know how our people feel about this outrageous thing, come to our city and hold a hearing," shouted Louis B. Gilkman of Revere. "There will be enough angry people turn out to fill any two big halls you could find."

The protest was directed against the Suburban Gas & Electric Company, the Malden & Melrose Gas Light Company and the Malden Electric Company, all controlled by the same financial interest and all of which have tacked on a "service charge" of 35 cents per meter on every gas or electric consumer.

Willis A. Smith of Malden, who has gas and electric meters both in his home and place of business, declared the company is getting $42.60 a year out of him on service charges alone.

$8.40 A YEAR EACH.

Charles B. Russell of Malden, who has gone out among his neighbors to inquire the effect of the service charge upon them, said that it costs the average consumer $8.40 a year.

"The company said this was to be an experiment for six months," he said. "They tried it on the dog—the consumer. They 'reduced' the rates for gas and electricity but put on the service charge. We have done the suffering. Now make the company abolish the service charge."

"The service charge was a new wrinkle to get us," said Mr. Gilkman. "We don't want any service charge. We want it abolished and then we want to fight the company on its high rates. The company never loses. It is like the man who runs the game and gets a rake-off no matter how much the suckers lose."

"What game do you refer to?" said Chairman Attwill.

"Poker," said Gilkman.

ALWAYS A WINNER.

"The company never makes a false move," said Fred P. Greenwood of Everett. "They always try these new moves out in advance and never go through with them unless they know they are going to be the winner. The company has charged me $4.20 a year for a gas meter, $4.20 a year for an electric meter and has also abolished the discount for the prompt payment of the gas and electric rate."

John Burnett of Melrose said 2,000 people of that city have signed a protest against the service charge.

City Solicitor Harvey L. Boutwell of Malden declared that before the service charge was installed the Malden & Melrose Gas Light Company was so prosperous that it was building up a surplus at the rate of $50,000 a year and for years had paid a dividend of 12 per cent.

NORTH ADAMS RECTOR THREATENED BY MAIL

North Adams, Jan. 15.—Rev. C. H. Jeanotte, pastor of Notre Dame Church, has received a letter demanding that he cease his spiritual ministrations. It is understood he received the letter late Saturday night, though he made no mention of it at any of the services in his church yesterday.

PROTESTANT BISHOP REVIEWS CARDINAL O'CONNELL'S BOOKS

By BISHOP EDWIN H. HUGHES,
Resident Bishop, Boston Area, Methodist Episcopal Church.

It is a delicate task for a Protestant clergyman to review volumes that contain the deliverances of a Prelate of the Church of Rome; and the task becomes more delicate when a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, himself a Protestant in all his training and convictions, gives out his word concerning the books of Cardinal O'Connell, always an unfailing champion of Catholic positions.

Bishop Edwin H. Hughes.

Cardinal O'Connell

But, inasmuch as I believe that just now our country is in need of manifestations of proper liberality; and inasmuch as I likewise believe that Protestants and Catholics must learn the art of living together, not only peaceably but generously, I am pleased to make some observations on Cardinal O'Connell's sentiments as found in these seven volumes.

Let it be said that the contents vary—ranging from semi-extemporaneous utterances, evidently taken down stenographically and afterward somewhat revised, to other addresses that bear the marks of most careful preparation. Both classes of utterances are attractive—the former for a certain freedom and force, the latter for cautious discrimination in matters more or less controversial. It may be fairly said that the Cardinal has attained the fine art of using direct and pungent English and that, whether you agree with him or not, you always understand what he himself says or writes.

The books plainly reveal the fact that the Cardinal's utterances are largely confined to occasions of a distinctly church character. Since going through two volumes with care, and the other volumes in a more cursory way, I have found the pages sprinkled with the word "Catholic," while the footnotes show that for the most part, almost for the entire part, the Cardinal was speaking as an ecclesiastic, representing different phases of his Church's life.

COULD BE READ WITH PROFIT BY ALL

None the less, I tested certain pages of the volumes by this rule—How much of this is universal rather than denominational? The result was this discovery—that the beginnings were often such utterances as could be made on any occasion where good men and women were met for a worthy object, while the forms of address and the applications fell under Catholic nomenclature. I am confident, also, that my many Catholic friends will not misunderstand, if I affirm that certain addresses of Cardinal O'Connell, not delivered on ecclesiastical occasions, might well have been included, either as additions, or as substitutes for addresses that are printed. For example, the address made to Cardinal Mercier was given under Church auspices, but I am not able to find that altogether admirable address that Cardinal O'Connell made to the distinguished Belgian hero and Cardinal at the State Dinner at the Touraine Hotel.

When I made a wider test, I was pleased to see how much of what the Cardinal has written could be read with welcome and profit by those who are not of his own religious communion. If we were to treat these addresses, for instance, as we treat hymns, we should find an immense residuum of noble sentiment that is human, without being ecclesiastical and Christian without being sectarian or even denominational. We Protestants sing Faber's "Faith of Our Fathers, Living Still," but we omit certain verses that stress a doctrine of the Church and use the universal sentiment of the really great hymn—while we likewise use Cardinal Newman's "Lead, Kindly Light," since it has in it no direct hint of either the Anglican or the Roman theory of the Church. Nor can I, as a Protestant, see any reason why Charles Wesley's "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," or Toplady's "Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me," or Washington Gladden's "O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee," could not with both propriety and profit be sung in any Catholic Church.

COMMENDS LOFTY PASSAGES

Therefore, it is good to find in the Cardinal's pages so much that makes a universal appeal; and every once in a while, indeed, very often, I found myself saying, "That is good"—perhaps because I said as well, "I believe that myself!"

One fact these seven volumes plainly show—that Cardinal O'Connell is either a prodigious worker or else that he is endowed with marked versatility.

Nor can I fail to comment on certain lofty patriotic utterances, and I do this the more gladly because we Methodist Episcopalians have prided ourselves on being a very patriotic people. It is fine to have the Cardinal's admission that our country is one to be loved—when we remind ourselves that our nation has a decided Protestant majority in its citizenship. If America be as grand as the Cardinal states so well, the Protestant majority must be fairly good people. On the other hand, if our country in our esteem be what the Cardinal glowingly represents, our millions of Catholic people must not be denied their share in helping to make the nation what it is today.

If we can fill, Catholics, Protestants, and Jews, confine ourselves to constructive work for God and maintain our own convictions in high-minded and courteous fashion, we can perhaps aid in putting an end to a period in which religious bigotry, not monopolized by any one party, has had its painful evidences.

For this reason, I have been glad to write these words which, as I believe, have not on the one side surrendered my own Protestant conviction nor on the other side failed in courtesy to the Prelate of a great religious communion.

DIVORCES MATE WHO BIT HER

Cambridge Wife Declares Husband Tore Her Clothes and Dragged Her on Floor

Charging her husband tore off her clothes, bit her and dragged her across the floor by the hair, Mrs. Ellen M. Till of Cambridge won a decree in her divorce suit against John Till before Justice Hall in Middlesex County Superior Court today.

It was her second divorce, she having obtained a divorce from her first husband on grounds of desertion.

According to Mrs. Till, her married bliss with her second mate lasted one short month. He left her, she said, after a month of cruel treatment, on September 1, 1907. They were married in August.

During that time her husband she said, tore her clothing on several occasions. Her husband did not appear to contest the case.

"You have had rather hard luck with husbands," was Judge Hall's remark as he granted her the decree.

BOSS OF MANCHURIA BACKS SUN YAT-SEN

Amoy, China, Jan. 14 (By the Associated Press).—Chang Tso Lin, warlord and dictator of Manchuria, and his associates are supplying large sums of money for the buying over of army divisions for Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, former President of the South China Republic, who is reported ready to besiege Canton in an effort to regain the Presidency, according to word received here today from Canton.

General Chen Chiung-Ming, who overthrew Dr. Sun's government, is still in Canton, according to reports here. Statements of his flight to Hong Kong are regarded as propaganda.

KILLED IN KNIFE DUEL OVER WOMAN

Canton, O., Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—Battling with pocket knives for the favor of a woman, who says she was the wife of one and housekeeper for both, Harold Harting, twenty-five, was killed and Grady Starnes, twenty-nine, is held today for his murder. The woman, who told police she was Mrs. Vera Harting and wife of the dead man, received a severe stab wound on the arm in trying to separate the two men. Harting received a stab in the groin which severed an artery. The woman is held as a witness.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA BOUNDARY FIXED

Washington, Jan. 15.—The south bank of the Red River was made the boundary line between Texas and Oklahoma, by order of the Supreme Court today, in the famous Red River case. The decision is a compromise of the conflicting contentions of the United States and Texas, the cut bank for most of the distance, where the contest centred, at the big bend, being the bluffs, which the United States contended should be made the boundary, and the south bank of the river at its normal stage, which Texas urged should be made the line.

CONSTANTINO'S BODY BARRED FROM GREECE

Naples, Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—The Greek revolutionary government at Athens has refused permission to bury the remains of former King Constantine on Greek soil, said a dispatch from Athens today. The body is still lying in the Greek Church here, where services were conducted Sunday. It is expected it will be entombed temporarily in Italy.

Movie Star Who Deals in Realty

KEEPS DIVORCED HUSBAND AS HER BUSINESS MATE

Los Angeles, Jan. 15.—Though Ruth Roland, dare-devil star of the serial films, and her husband, L. E. Kent, decided five years ago that as matrimonial partners they were not suited, that little disagreement has not prevented them from being partners in a real estate deal.

The fair Ruth is the owner of some valuable Los Angeles property, and friend husband that was to her partner and business agent.

Miss Roland has followed the lead set by Agnes Ayres of "Sheik" fame, and the two stars find that in these days, when apartments and houses are hard to obtain, commissions on sales and rentals are not to be looked at with scorn.

News that Miss Roland had broken into the real estate game came through the erection of a big sign at Fairfax avenue and Wilshire boulevard.

This is what the sign said: "Attention, Mr. Conservative Investor —Mr. Subdivision. All or part of this sixty-one acres for sale—Ruth Roland, owner; L. E. Kent for information."

ASKS MORE PAY FOR LABORERS OF CITY

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 15.—State Senator John S. Hurley, representing the City Employes' Union, today appealed to the Highway Commission for an increase in wages for the 400 city laborers. He declared that the $19 paid them was unfair in comparison with Massachusetts cities, which paid $25 a week. Under present conditions, with an average of one day lost in a week, these men were receiving only $18 a week. The commission took the plea under advisement.

NEW 133-MILE ROAD FOR SOUTH FLORIDA

Washington, Jan. 15.—One of the largest railroad construction projects which the Interstate Commerce Commission has been called upon to authorize in recent years, received the approval of the commission today. It involves the construction in Florida during the next five years, by the Florida East Coast Railroad, of a 153-mile line between Okeechobee and Lemon City, near Miami. Cost of the project is estimated at $4,839,600.

VALENTINO IN ROLE OF CLAM

His North End Countrymen Give Him an Arctic Circle Reception

Rodolph Valentino, "The Sheik," was officially received by Mayor Curley at City Hall this afternoon and by Governor Cox at the State House. The Sheik chatted a few moments with the two officials and then continued on his tour of Boston.

Breaking away from the eager admirers that continually thronged his automobile, the movie idol visited the Art Museum for a few moments. For the benefit of thousands who are eager to learn if Rodolph's voice is as satisfactory as his appearance, he will deliver a radio lecture on "What Is the Matter with the Movies?"

Breakfast dishes were piled in the sinks of hundreds of Boston homes today as valiant housewives braved the sleet and rain for an early glimpse of the "Sheik."

The admiring crowd of women and girls that lined the pavements on Rodolph Valentino's trail were curiously apologetic about their enthusiasm. Before his limousine passed they elaborately assured one another they "just happened to be out and thought they might as well look him over."

But when the young "Apollo" appeared on the scene, smiling and flourishing a debonair cigarette holder, the women didn't try to mask their enthusiasm. Dignified matrons, shy schoolgirls and audacious flappers elbowed their way to the side of his car, blushing and straightening their hats as they ran.

NO WORD SPOKEN.

Rodolph seemed stricken with silence at each onslaught of the adoring throng. He said not a word, speaking only with his over-eloquent eyes, and grinning a boyish smile. Some skeptical women along the line of march resented his silence. Some doubted his ability to speak English.

Strangely enough, the screen idol was scarcely recognized in the North End. Valentino expressed his wish to meet some of his countrymen. He drove directly to the North End from the Copley Plaza.

Through slushy crowded Salem streets Rodolph drove, not stopping once. If his countrymen recognized him, they gave no sign. The limousine stopped once to let two tiny Italian children pass under a perilously balanced umbrella.

RADCLIFFE GIRLS GAZE.

Rodolph opened the door and called to them and they came over timidly curious. They were frankly bored at being interrupted. He gave the little girl an affectionate pat on the head, which she accordingly tolerated. She squirmed away from him, not realizing that thousands of women all over the country would give much to have been in her position!

At Harvard Square a large assemblage of Radcliffe students waited under colorful silk umbrellas. Most of them had cut classes to pay homage to their hero, they declared, but when he came and the crowd thronged around him to shake hands the Radcliffe girls refused to shake. They refused to comment as to the reason for their refusal, saying merely that they "guessed it wasn't worth while, after all."

FACTORIES CLOSE.

Large delegations of girls from Somerville and Everett factories greeted Valentino. Several shoe factories closed for a period to allow their employes to see the movie star.

'Be Yourself' Said Mrs. FitzGerald to Lawmakers

"Be yourselves."

Men smoked as usual today at the first legislative hearing ever attended by a woman solon.

Mrs. Susan W. FitzGerald is a member of and clerk of the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

The committee held its first hearing today. Just before the hearing began, the male members said to her:

"Any objection if we smoke?"

"Be yourselves," said she.

Out came the cigars and matches and the hearing went on as usual.

36-HOUR STORM GRIPS HALIFAX; TWO DEATHS

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 15.—Two lives were lost and much property damage resulted from the worst blizzard that has raged in this province in twenty years. The storm set in on Friday and continued for more than thirty-six hours, tying up traffic completely in most sections.

Henry D'Entremont, ten-year-old son of George D'Entremont of Lower West Pubnico, who was being taken to Yarmouth to be operated upon for appendicitis, died aboard a train stalled in a snowdrift ten miles from the hospital, and John Carmichael, a seventy-one-year-old farmer near here, lost his life when he became bewildered in the storm, lost his way and perished in a snowbank.

He left his house Friday night to attend to some stock in a barn nearby. His body was found under a deep covering of snow in his orchard.

The first express train to reach this city since Friday pulled in late Sunday night from Montreal. It had been stalled at Londonderry, eighty miles from Halifax, for twenty-four hours, where it was almost completely covered with snow and fuel and food supplies ran short.

The passengers were provided with food by occupants of farm houses in the neighborhood who came to their assistance on snowshoes with baskets of food.

Reports reaching here stated that all trains on Prince Edward Island were blocked by snow.

Rain Turns Providence Streets Into Sea of Slush

Providence, Jan. 15.—A heavy snow storm, followed by rain, turned the city into a veritable sea of slush. Electric and steam railroad traffic has been hampered. Street cars are running from 20 to 35 minutes late, and almost every train entering the Union Station is a half-hour behind schedule. Many cellars of the down-town stores are flooded.

Fitchburg Badly Tied Up Despite $10,000 Spent

Fitchburg, Jan. 15.—The heavy snow storms of the past week cost the city $10,000 — despite this there have been scores of incidents of ambulances being held up by big drifts; fire trucks stalled and hampered street railway traffic.

One ambulance, carrying a patient to Burbank Hospital, was held up three hours. Several incidents have also been reported of physicians refusing to answer night calls because of the condition of the roads.

love the girls to see the Young Rajah.

Fragments of a cigarette that fell from the jeweled holder of Valentino just as he was about to light it, were cherished as souvenirs by girls who pounced upon it and tore it apart in their excitement.

A few noticeably amused men were in the crowds. They pretended to think it was all "bunk" to pay so much attention to the movie favorite, but after he had shaken hands they admitted he looked like a "regular fella."

Rodolph wore a light gray felt hat, poised at a jaunty angle. He did not wear spats. A light scarf encircled his throat and he wore light gray suede gloves and a dark overcoat. The fantastic jeweled cigaretteholder completed his costume.

THREE I. W. W.S SCORN PARDON FROM HARDING

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Three of the eight political prisoners in Leavenworth penitentiary, given commutations by President Harding as Christmas gifts have refused to accept them, according to word received today from the general defence committee of the I. W. W. in Chicago.

The three—Alfred Lambert, Harry Lloyd, Bert Lorton and Peter Green—prefer to remain in prison rather than accept the condition attached to the commutations that they be deported to their native lands immediately on release.

Because he is a native American, J. C. Bourg, one of the eight whose sentences were commuted, will have to serve out his term. The commutation was cancelled as soon as the Department of Justice learned Bourg was born in Lamont, Ill., and, therefore, not subject to deportation.

Scarlett, best known of the eight, all of whom were convicted as I. W. W.'s in what is known as the "Chicago case" A. V. Azura and Archie Sinclair have accepted the President's Christmas present. Scarlett and Sinclair will be deported to Great Britain and Azura to Spain.

Miss Molloy says there is no machinistration of the local not illegality in handling of funds nor other irregularities as were charged by Miss O'Connor.

Makes Boys Shovel Snow to Pay for Joy Ride

Otto Lane and Joseph McCrensky, each eight years old and each living on Quincy street, Somerville, earned a dollar apiece today shovelling snow.

But they did not spend the money for candy or toys. They marched with the hard-earned cash to Somerville Court where they turned it over to the probation officer.

Otto and Joseph worked under duress. Two weeks ago they appropriated a bakery wagon for a ride about Somerville. Judge Sturtevant decided today that while the boys did not injure either horse or wagon they nevertheless should pay for its hire.

He set the hire at $1 each, and recommended that the boys go out and earn the money. He continued their case while they went out.

QUINCY WOMAN HOSPITAL HEAD RESIGNS

Miss Catherine Early, superintendent of Quincy City Hospital for three years, resigned today to the new board of managers, which has begun inquiry into the administration of the former board of managers.

Miss Early gave no reason for her immediate resignation. Instead of accepting or rejecting the resignation, the new board laid it on the table and invited Miss Early to appear before the board next Saturday for questioning.

Mayor Gustave B. Bates, the new city executive, named a new board of managers last week. The new board organized today with Walter F. Nichols of Wollaston as chairman and Charles R. Young, Quincy lawyer, as secretary.

Mayor Bates criticized the administration of the old board in his inaugural. He dwelt especially on the method of collecting hospital bills from patients slow in paying. Some of these patients have been brought into court by a collection agency to whom the hospital turned over the bills.

Since his inaugural the Mayor has used the adjectives "cruel" and "inhuman" in commenting on such methods of collecting hospital bills. It is not understood, however, that Miss Early was responsible for the bill-gathering method.

The new board voted to ask Quincy physicians to bring forward next Saturday suggestions for an improvement in hospital administration.

HARVARD SAYS LOWELL'S VIEWS MISQUOTED

President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard today denied statements attributed to him in the New York Times relating to racial prejudice, as affecting the Jews in particular. The following statement was issued today by the university:

"An anonymous speaker reporting a private conversation on a speech quoted in the New York Times. This grossly misrepresented his views, attributing to him unfriendly sentiments which he does not feel. His earnest desire is to see antisemitic prejudice and Semitic segregation abolished in this end, not shutting their eyes to the fact of mutual prejudice where it exists but sealing to eliminate it."

According to the New York Times today an unnamed speaker said before the Maccabeans, a Jewish organization last night:

"President Lowell takes full credit for the plan to limit the number of Jews seeking admission into Harvard. It was his view that so long as the Jewish people decide to remain apart, as a distinct entity in American life and not merge in a social way by intermarriage with the Gentile, just so long will prejudice continue and grow even worse.

"President Lowell predicted that within twenty years we will see in the United States the same conditions that now exist in Central Europe, where blood is spilled as a result of anti-Semitism.

"The time will come, Dr. Lowell said, when the Jew must be treated in the same way as the negro, and his advice was that the Jews drop their faith."

SHEPARD STORES WORKERS TO DANCE

More than $00 associates of the Shepard stores and their friends will attend the New Year's dance of the Shepard Mutual Aid Association in the Chateau. William H. FAIR WEATHER COMING FOR FEW DAYS

Fair weather, clear skies and moderate temperatures was the good news that the weather man broke today as the official forecast for tonight and tomorrow.

At the same time he announced that we have had up to today almost a "Winterful" of snow. The average snowfall for an entire Winter is 44 inches, and 37.4 inches have fallen to date. He would not venture the prediction that we would have only 6.6 inches more.

The storm which broke Sunday afternoon came ahead of time, as Saturday is was central over Denver, and was not expected here until much later.

At present there is no prospect of another storm for some time.

Greenville, Me., at 12 above, phared with Modena, Utah, the honor of being the coldest place in the United States today. Boston, at 36, was the warmest place in New England.

DECLARES STANDARD OIL COMPANY HAS KILLED COMPETITION

THROTTLE SMALLER CONCERNS

Dictate the Oil and Gasoline Prices and Crush Out Independents That Try to Fight

Washington, Jan. 15.—Gasoline and oil prices in the United States are determined solely by "arbitrary dictation," of the so-called Standard Oil group, L. V. Nicholas, president of the National Petroleum Marketers' Association, charged today before the Senate Investigating Committee.

Nicholas charged competition in the oil industry has been successfully eliminated and said independents, in order to survive, were compelled to accept price decrees of standard units even though this action resulted in losses.

"Suppose the independents attempt to lower prices, what happens?" Mr. Nicholas was asked.

"Many things happen," the witness replied. "The Standard group does not meet that cut directly but makes a blanket reduction which hurts good and bad alike."

COMPETITION KILLED.

Mr. Nicholas declared many of the independents were "only a hypodermic means of injecting Standard products into the consuming channels disguised as non-Standard products."

To distinguish between such independents and what he termed "real independents," the witness said, his organization of 350 members and affiliated State associations had revised "a declaration of independence from Standard domination."

Over installation of pumps and tanks in gasoline filling stations, Mr. Nicholas asserted, "is the greatest bandleap in the oil business today." He added that the country now had enough gasoline filling stations to meet its needs for ten years and that any increase would only add to the cost to the consumer.

TOO MANY GAS STATIONS.

"How many filling stations are needed in the average town of 5,000 population?" the committee attorney asked.

"One would be enough if it was an independent station," the witness answered. "By that I mean if the one station did its business on a competitive basis."

19 OFF FOR FLORIDA IN MOHAWK AUTO

The Mohawk II., a touring limousine, the second of the fleet operated by the George E. Marsters Tourist Agency, No. 248 Washington street left Copley square today for Miami. The car, accommodating nineteen passengers, including the chauffeur, will make the trip traveling in easy stages, stopping over night at the following places: Hartford, New York city, Washington, Richmond, Va., Raleigh, N. C., Pinehurst, N. C., Camden, S. C., Augusta, Savannah, Brunswick, Ga., Jacksonville, Daytona, Palm Beach and Miami.

Among the party were: Miss Alice Kingman, Boston; Mrs. F. W. Pelletier, Mr. and Mrs. M. Michaud, Madawaska, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Hertz, Mrs. M. Schrecker, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Parker, Goffstown, N. H.; Miss Cora B. Huston, Farmington, Me.; and Mrs. J. P. Hale, Gloucester, Mass., and Mr. G. S. Adams, Boston.

The Mohawk II. is the most luxurious touring limousine ever constructed. The body is built from original designs, extra large plate glass, mechanically-operated window; seats with hair cushions covered with hand-buffed leather, all woodwork mahogany; electric lights and the most improved heating apparatus. At the rear is a closed and locked baggage compartment.

The wheelbase, 138 inches, and the semi-elliptic springs, 41½ inches long in front and 60 inches long in the rear, insure a smoothness of operation heretofore unobtained by even the highest class of motor cars. The party is due to arrive at Jacksonville Friday, January 26.

The Mohawk II., with the Mohawk I., will operate on regular schedule during the Winter months from Jacksonville to Miami.

Betty Alden Sees Dress Rehearsal of Animated Advertising Adventure

By BETTY ALDEN.

SUE STURGIS (the clever stage manager) yelling, "Girls, pay attention, or we'll never get through!" Slim ankles wobbling on the runway. Two debs discussing the pro and con-ness of the wave in Eleanor Sutton's hair—the pros finally winning. The great big dog that little Mary Hall couldn't manage.

The Braggiotti sisters rehearsing "Rainbow Rain," the best dance I've ever see them in. Sue Sturgis crying for a blue "spot." The reddish tints of Helen Bayley's blonde hair as she walked up the runway. Fluffy-haired Rose Fessenden yelling, "I'm only an overcoat!" The very severe headdress which revealed the chiseledness of Dorothy Powning's features.

Some one saying that Virginia Parker looked so beautiful "I can't bear to watch her and then think of me." Sue Sturgis imploring the orchestra not to leave just yet. The stateliness of Edith Bremer—a perfect blonde—in a gorgeously simple gown of black velvet. Dark-haired Barbara Little garbed in a golden gown and a headdress so large she could hardly get through the door with it.

Isabelle Mumford looking very natural in sport clothes and wielding a tennis racquet. Francesca Braggiotti calling across the footlights, "Pappa, dear, are the lights right?" Nina Higginson getting over the grippe and all dressed up as a cigarette girl. Katherine Abbott looking as handsome as ever in a smart sport model. Sue Sturgis repeating that "every girl must stay until this number is over!"

THESE are only a very few of the brief impressions I have of the dress rehearsal of the Animated Advertising Adventure held yesterday afternoon at the Boston Opera House.

I saw only half of the show, but what I did see was good enough to warrant recommending anyone to see the public performance tonight. The girls are pretty, the costumes are clever, the music is good, and what more could a person want? This affair, for whose success a number of society folk, including J. Lovell Little, Miss Susan Sturgis, Mrs. "Ollie" Ames, Jr., and Mrs. Prescott F. Bigelow, Jr., have been working untiringly, is in aid of the Boston Children's Friend Society. Unless I am much mistaken, its coffers should be considerably swelled thereby, for I expect to see the very last one of the far-famed "four hundred" at the Opera House tonight.

MISS MABEL HOLDEN.

Miss Mabel Holden, debutante daughter of the Joshua Holdens, returned from a visit to Baltimore just in time to take part in the Animated Advertising Adventure at the Boston Opera House tonight.

2 WEDDINGS BRING 3 INTO COURT

Two Newton weddings Saturday furnished three defendants in Newton court today.

Joseph M. Smith of No. 13 Central avenue, Needham, driver of a truck, smashed into a limousine containing Warren Kennedy of New Jersey and his bride, formerly Miss Marguerite Jones, of Columbus street, Newton Highlands.

Neither was injured and the couple continued to Boston in another machine. Smith was fined $50 and given two months sentence for drunkenness and driving under the influence of liquor. He appealed.

George Murphy of Dalby street and Joseph Scrook of Chapel street, Newton, made merry with too much liquor at the wedding festivities at the home of Antonio Besiano on Nevada street, Nonantum, according to police. Murphy was fined $5, while Scrook's fine was suspended and he was placed on probation.

WORKMAN KILLED BETWEEN TWO CARS

Elias Mahan, forty years old, of No. 49 Hudson street, was fatally injured today when two work cars of the Boston Elevated collided in South Boston. Mahan was hit by one of the cars and internally injured.

LABOR MOURNS LOSS OF HENRY ABRAHAMS

Henry Abrahams, who for twenty-five years gave his salary as secretary of the Central Labor Union to the widow of the man he succeeded, died today at his home, No. 12 Marble street, Roxbury.

Henry Abrahams.

All the time he was turning over that money he was educating and supporting a family of eight children on $23 a week as secretary of the Cigarmakers' Union.

In spite of the fact he had so little money he managed to accumulate a library of more than 3,500 volumes, the greater percentage of which dealt with labor or economic problems.

Funeral services will be held at his home Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be in the United Hand in Hand Cemetery at West Roxbury.

It was the unquenchable thirst for knowledge that caused him to sacrifice personal comfort for books and made him a valuable member of the Boston School Committee and Massachusetts Child Labor Committee and American Association for Labor Legislation.

LOUISE HOMER AND DAUGHTER GIVEN OVATION

By ZOE FABER

Mme. Louise Homer and Mme. Louise Homer-Stires, her daughter, gave a recital in Symphony Hall to a throng who derived an immense amount of pleasure from the singing. Every seat that could be placed on the stage was occupied.

The best that the program offered was the last group wherein mother and daughter sang three duets of which Tosti's "Venetian Boat Song" was the highlight. It cannot be gainsaid that the voices of the two Homers blend beautifully and that their work together bespeaks volumes in the matter of careful study with every detail of ensemble worked out with marked accuracy.

Of the voices individually, opinions differ. There were discernible some of the old, exquisitely beautiful tones of Louise Homer of a few years ago. Her audience was quite thrilled when she sang as an encore "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice."

Louise Homer-Stires has a rather sweet, clear soprano, which she uses with the inimitable skill of her mother. The most excellent training is evident in everything she sings.

Innumerable encores were added to a program already sufficiently long—but not long enough at that, for the audience.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR MAKES ANOTHER WOMAN THANKFUL

Not long ago a woman on Lamson St., East Boston (Mass.), gave out a praiseworthy letter which appeared in newspapers. She mentioned how thankful she was for having been told about a constipation medicine known as Dr. True's Elixir.

Now another resident, Mrs. Rogers, of 108 Falcon St., East Boston, writes: "I still have Dr. True's Elixir, for it surely benefits me; I have a good appetite and eat everything that I want. I could not get along as good as I do if I did not take Dr. True's Elixir. It is surely a wonderful medicine. I never felt any better than now since I took the Elixir."

BRITISH INSIST DEBT INTEREST BE CUT AGAIN

By International News Service.

London, Jan. 15.—Premier A. Bonar Law today instructed Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin, who is now in Washington, heading the British debt funding commission, to insist upon a further interest rate reduction. He suggests that the United States would consent to 3 per cent. upon the $4,377,000,000 owing to the United States. The Premier approves payment of the debt with bonds.

Agreement on British Debt Predicted

Washington, Jan. 15 (By International News Service).—The second and last week of negotiations between British and American debt funding commissions began today, with every prospect, officials said, of a tentative agreement for a settlement, subject to approval of Congress, modifying the funding law.

It is understood the British have said in effect that the debt cannot be funded over a period of less than fifty years or at an interest rate greater than 3½ per cent.

Officials declared the United States is bound to acquiesce in the British suggestion of a more liberal funding plan and that Congress will grant the larger powers.

The British commissioners, Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin and Governor Montague Norman of the Bank of England, plan to sail from New York Saturday for England.

NEWTON GIRL BRIDE OF LAWYER

A romance which started when Joseph V. Carroll, assistant United States district attorney, pitched his ball club to a no-hit, no-run game at York Beach, Me., has culminated in Mr. Carroll's marriage to Miss Marie Catherine Reardon of Newtonville. The bride was a spectator at the game and on its completion mutual friends introduced her to the baseball player. The friendship ripened into love and a wedding followed at the Church of Our Lady, Newtonville. The bride's brother, the Rev. Fr. Reardon of Roslindale, performed the ceremony.

5 OVERCOME IN SOMERVILLE BY COAL GAS

Five in one family at No. 9 Linden Circle, Somerville, were overcome by coal gas today while sleeping.

Those overcome were Philip Appel, fifty years old, his wife, Bertha, and their three daughters, Gertrude, eighteen years old; Lillian, ten years old, and Isabelle, eight.

Neighbors smelling the fumes rushed into the house and found every member of the family unconscious. They opened all the windows and telephoned for a police ambulance.

When the police arrived they found the five sufficiently recovered that hospital treatment was not necessary.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus every use gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents, night and day.

A Rich Reward

To those who beautify their teeth

You would not for one day leave your teeth as they are if you knew what others know.

Prettier teeth bring rich rewards, both to men and women. There are few things more attractive. Then that feeling of cleanliness, that increased sense of safety.

Millions are gaining these results by a new way of teeth cleaning. Make this free test and see how much it means to you and yours.

It removes the film

That viscous film you feel on teeth is their chief enemy. Millions of teeth are dimmed and ruined by it.

It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it. So much of it is left intact.

That film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Film forms a breeding place for germs. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Very few people, under old methods, escaped these film-caused troubles. Glistening teeth were seen less often than now.

A change has come

Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle film, one to daily remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Many careful tests by able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. And these two great film combatants were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. It is now advised by dentists the world over. To the careful people of some 50 nations it is bringing a new dental era.

Other discoveries

Modern research proved other things essential. So Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest

Based on sound dental research

Tooth troubles were constantly increasing. Some of them became alarming in extent. It was evident that the methods of teeth cleaning were utterly inadequate.

Pepsodent is the result of efforts to correct that situation. It was found that tooth pastes based on soap and chalk brought undesired effects. It was known that none effectively fought film.

This is the new-day method. Its results are quickly seen and felt. After this test, you never can doubt that you need them. Compare them with results you get now.

SHEVLIN AND SHADE EACH CONFIDENT OF WINNING BIG BOUT

WELTERS ARE BUSY AT TRAINING CAMPS

By JACK CONWAY.

Shevlin says he'll win!

Shade disagrees with him!

And then fans are divided. Same say Shevlin, as many more Shade.

That's how things stand as the rival welterweights get into the serious stage of their training for their top-round battle which will be staged by the Arena A. C. at Mechanics Building next Monday night.

It is the "battle of the century" for Boston and New England fans. Every available foot of space in Mechanics Building will be jammed when these famous ring warriors enter the roped arena.

This is only to be expected as when Shevlin and Shade clashed early last Fall they put up one of the most sensational encounters ever staged in this city.

Shevlin won the decision. To do this he was obliged to put up the most spectacular bout of his brilliant career.

When the bell sounded at the end of the eighth frame we felt Shade and the fight won. Shevlin was groggy from heavy punches to the jaw and was fortunate to last out the round.

Shade went forth to win by a knockout in the ninth. He had failed to give proper recognition to Shevlin's generalship and fighting heart. Eddie rallied, stopped the wild rush of the youthful Californian, turned the tide of battle in his own favor, forced the issue and won the round. He then went out and gained the honors in the tenth frame. His spurt gave him the decision.

For months Shade clamored for a return bout. Shevlin finally consented to meet the Leo Flynn entry again.

There was then some lively bidding for the match between Frank Flournoy, matchmaker for Mechanics Square Garden, and Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Arena. Goodwin finally offered financial inducements which brought this fistic classic to Boston.

Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, has announced he will risk his championship in a bout with the most serious contenders, Shade, Shevlin, Doyle and Ward are considered Walker's chief rivals. Shevlin has decisions to his credit over each of these men. Therefore if Dartmouth Eddie should win over Shade again he will be in a position to demand a match with Walker.

Jack Bulger, Walker's manager, has informed this writer that he would consent to pitting his protege against either Shevlin or Shade. Consequently Shevlin and Shade will be battling for the right to a shot at the world's welterweight champion when they meet at the Arena club's show.

Boston and New England, very naturally, will root for Shevlin. It has been years since a local boxer gained the public esteem that has been won by Shevlin. He is deserving of the plaudits of the crowd as he has defeated every welterweight of prominence whom he has met. He fought hard and clean and has also conducted himself in his private life in a way to bring credit to himself and to the sport which he follows for a livelihood.

Shevlin, of course, has his enemies like other athletes who have gained national prominence. But to Eddie's credit it can be said that they are mostly numbered among gangsters, pickpockets, dope addicts and the like who attack him because they envy his proud position in the society of respectable people.

College professors, doctors, lawyers, workmen, laborers and all lovers of clean sport whose minds and hearts are not poisoned by envy and hatred are numbered among Shevlin's well wishers.

Shevlin has done his best boxing since he came out of the navy following the war. During this time he has battered his way to the front ranks of the world's welterweights.

Shade today is the only serious obstacle in Shevlin's path. Dave blames his last defeat at the hands of Shevlin to the fact he was not properly cared for the night he arrived in Boston after a four-day train ride from Dallas, Texas. Naturally he was a bit off form.

Neither boxer will be in a position to offer an alibi after next Monday night's quarrel.

And we don't think either man will attempt to do so.

"I'll be fit to put up the greatest battle of my career," says Shevlin. "And so will I," adds Shade.

Meanwhile the boxers will continue their training, while the Arena Club will make every effort to accommodate every fan who desires to see this ring classic.

Jack Conway Picks Young Manty to Win at Lynn

W		L
7	Jack Conway's fistic magic is working once more.	2

Since receiving a double reverse at the Armory A. A.'s show last week Jack has named four winners in a row. He will try to continue his winning streak this week. Jack says:

"Hop down to Lynn tonight and take a look at Young Manty who battles Joe Curry. Manty is one of the classiest kids that ever stepped into a ring. I figure he carries too many guns for Curry. The latter will give Manty a hard fight, but the New Bedford boy will win."

YOUNG MANTY TO TACKLE CURRY

Lynn will be out front on the fistic stage with another star bout tonight. Matchmaker Jack Murphy of the Casino A. C. has Young Manty of New Bedford billed to meet Joe Curry of New Haven in the feature bout. This is a major league attraction, and is sure to draw out a packed house. Manty, a boxing flash, has toppled over all of his opponents. At New Bedford last week, he handed the veteran Al Shuflett a pasting.

ITALIAN COLONY TO BACK CALZA

George Calza, greatest Italian athlete of modern times, will meet the biggest test of his sensational wrestling career when he battles Joe Stecher, former world's champion, at the Old Howard's show at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night.

Stecher has agreed to toss Calza and George Kotsonaros, Greek champion, with in one hour and a half of actual wrestling time. Inasmuch as Stecher won most of his big matches when he first started wrestling inside of twenty-five minutes, his supporters are confident he will be able to dispose of Calza as well as Kotsonaros.

Calza's wrestling successes have aided the Italian people as well as himself. This youthful sensation has always made a practice of giving a liberal part of his earnings to Italian charities. This has made him very popular among his own people.

All three wrestlers will complete training for the match here in Boston.

"Little Italy" will journey to the Opera House, Thursday night, to see its idol in action. One of the biggest wrestling crowds of the season is expected to turn out.

AMATEUR RING STARS CLASH WEDNESDAY

Followers of amateur boxing will receive an opportunity to witness the best boxers of Boston, Pittsburgh and Toronto in action at the international show to be staged at Mechanics Building Wednesday night.

It will be the first time that a Canadian team has invaded this city in quest of ring honors.

Montreal and Toronto are to day two of the best boxing centres on this continent. Naturally this has resulted in the development of many high class boxers.

Boston will send its leaders in the simon pure game into the coming battles in the hope of turning back the best boys from Pittsburgh and Toronto.

Alfred Gatenty

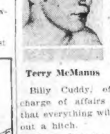
Each team will have four members and it is expected that the contests will furnish all kinds of thrills.

Besides the intercity bouts there will be tussles in three open classes, namely, 112 and 160 pounds, and in the heavyweight division.

There has been a tremendous demand for reservations and it is expected that Mechanics Building will be jammed to capacity when festivities get under way.

Billy Cuddy, of course, is in charge of affairs and this means that everything will be run off without a hitch.

Alfred Gatenty and Terry McManus are among the youthful stars who will compete in this classic.



Terry McManus

Big Tennis Tourney at Barcelona Feb. 1-11

Spain is excited over having the world's "covered court" tennis championship at Barcelona, February 1 to 11. The town council has donated the use of the famous Barcelona Exhibition Hall for the first tennis championship of such magnitude assigned to Spain, and has also extended 100,000 pesetas on credit to enable the Spanish association to erect stands and court surface of wood. Invitations have been extended to as far as the Philippines and Hawaiian tennis associations, and hope is held that at least two of the leading men and women players from the islands will compete.

BERLIN PLAYS TWICE AT THE ICE PALACE

Berlin, N. H., sends its hockey team, with ten victories to its credit, to play the Boston Hockey Club on Friday night and the Victorias on Saturday night at the Arena. The Berlin team has been recruited from the stars of Quebec, and local fans will see a smooth machine in action.

Berlin has gone hockey mad. They talk and eat hockey here. The town will be officially locked up Thursday night to permit all the citizens to accompany the team.

The team has made an enviable record. No setups appear on its season's records. It defeated such teams as the Montreal Nationals, Montreal A. A. A., Sherbrooke and Mount Allison University. None is an easy assignment for any club. The team scored 66 goals against 22 for opponents in ten games.

Jimmy Gardner of Montreal is coach. He is a well-known figure in Canada. He played in professional ranks for many years.

The opener this week at the Arena is scheduled for Wednesday, when Boston University will tackle Technology. The teams appear to be evenly matched. Boston University has three first class players in Kontoff, Almer and Prévost. Tech is showing improvement every time it starts.

It should be a different looking Harvard team that will oppose Yale at New Haven Saturday. The puck hockey was Harvard's ailment last week. That Harvard was able to hold Princeton to three goals was a tribute to its courage.

The masterly game Princeton played, when they swung stick checks, something new to Harvard players, completely upset the Crimson's game. It was an evidence of the efficient coaching given to the Tigers by Dr. Gaw.

EVERY GOLD SKATES RACE ENTRANT MAY BECOME RECRUITER

HAS A CHANCE TO GET OTHER ENTRIES

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Those in charge of the GOLD SKATES RACES wish every entrant to become a recruiter this week.

Wesley Robinson

With that in view there will be mailed to every boy and girl and young man and young women, who have registered for the races, eight or ten entry blanks, with the request that they have their pals and acquaintances fill them out and mail them promptly to the GOOD SKATES EDITOR of the Boston American.

The idea was suggested by Bob Curran of No. 762 Broadway, South Boston, whose entry was received by the GOLD SKATES EDITOR this morning.

Bob is only eleven years old and he does not enter the races expecting to win a pair of GOLD SKATES. Bob simply believes the GOLD SKATES RACES constitute a very worth while undertaking, and is sure that the health of Greater Boston's young people is going to be bettered through the encouragement in this great outdoor sport, and that Greater Boston will come to its own in the skating world if every skater becomes interested in the races.

"My chum, John Harvey, and I have been trying to interest other South Boston boys in the GOLD SKATES RACES," wrote Bob, "and, if we had a few blanks to distribute to them, we probably could get a lot more to enter the races.

Bill Bowe

"I, myself, have no chance to win because I have not had much practice and my left ankle isn't in very good condition. But I would like to see some South Boston boys or girls win some of the GOLD SKATE prizes, and if we get enough of them entered in the races some of them ought to be good enough to bring home the bacon to South Boston.

"I believe this GOLD SKATES plan is going to be a great thing in every way, both for the health of the boys and girls, and in developing skaters who can beat the Chicago and New York skaters who always seem to win the big skating championships."

There is need for real recruiters in South Boston, and in Charlestown, and in many other sections of Boston and its suburbs, if each section is to be equally represented in the big races. For eight or ten districts in Boston and three or four cities and towns in the suburban section, have entry lists which far outnumber those of the first named localities.

Harry L. Gilman

The sending of blanks to those already entered will give the poorly represented playgrounds and ponds opportunity to become rival clubs of the better-represented pond an' playgrounds.

Bob Curran and John Harvey thus will be able to furnish blanks to the South Boston boys and girls they interest in the event, and the boys and girls of localities can do the same.

Two more Franklin Field skaters have announced their intention of winning the prizes which go only to those who finish first in the final races in the GOLD SKATES series.

Louis Meister of No. 422 Beaver street, Dorchester, claiming to be the champion boy skater of Franklin Field, wrote the GOLD SKATES EDITOR:

"I know that I can win the GOLD SKATES for boys under 14 years of age. I hope that all the skaters are as fast as I am and maybe faster, because that will make me all the faster in beating them."

George Madden of No. 128 Norwell street, Dorchester, who has entered in the Franklin Field trials for boys 14 to 18, wrote:

"I want you to know I am going to win."

Today's entries were:

BASEBALL TOURISTS SCHEDULE HONOLULU

Honolulu, Jan. 15.—Arrangements are being made for a ten-day series of major league baseball here by J. Ashman Leavan, a sports promoter.

The big league party which has been touring the Orient will arrive here on the steamer President Lincoln on Thursday, and will remain until the end of the month. A tentative schedule provides games with the leaders of local leagues, including the crack Japanese and Chinese teams.

JANVRIN TO GET REGULAR BERTH

San Francisco, Jan. 15.—Hal Janvrin, generally regarded as the best infielder in the majors for the past six or seven years, will play regularly the coming season. Jim Boldt obtained Janvrin from the Brooklyn club for Seattle.

Hal Janvrin

The new Siwash broke into the American League with the Red Sox in 1910, coming direct from a Boston suburban high school. Besides serving almost a decade in majors he has played in both the International League and the American Association.

If he reports to Seattle—there have been rumors that he would not come to the coast—he will be one of the few men in the history of the game who have played in all five of the leading circuits—American, National, American Association, International and Pacific Coast.

ROBERTSON WILL MANAGE CLUB

Richmond, Va., Jan. 15.—Purchase of the Richmond Baseball Club by H. W. Dawson of Portsmouth and the appointment of Dave Robertson, former Giant star, as manager, has been announced at the club offices. The purchase price was not disclosed. Dave Robertson, who secured his release from the Giants to manage the club, succeeds Rube Oldring, formerly of the Athletics.

Old N. E. Ball League May Be Revived

Revival of the old New England Baseball League, with eight Eastern cities represented by teams, is in prospect. If present plans are fulfilled, the franchises will have been granted, clubs formed and a schedule under way by May 30. Stephen J. Flanagan of Lawrence, manager of clubs in several cities of the old league, is promoting the revival. He said today that formal application for territorial rights had been made to Secretary John H. Farrell of the National Association of Baseball Clubs, and he anticipated no opposition.

The circuit has not definitely been decided upon. At present, Flanagan said, nine cities were under consideration—Lewiston and Portland, in Maine; Manchester, in New Hampshire, and Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Salem, Lynn and Fitchburg, in Massachusetts. It is not improbable that another city or two may be included before the schedule makers sit down with the final list of clubs.

In most of the cities mentioned, it is understood, parks are available and in good shape. In one or two arrangements will have to be made.

Flanagan Selects Lawrence Grounds

Lawrence, Jan. 15.—The New England League Club in this city, if the league is reorganized, will probably play on the present high school field, Stephen J. Flanagan said today.

The only available park was purchased by the city several years ago, and has been used by high school athletic teams. Mr. Flanagan said an effort will be made to obtain the use of these grounds.

Business Man Ready to Finance Club

Haverhill, Jan. 16.—A business man of prominence and several others will finance a New England League club here if the organization is formed, it was said today. The name of the business man was withheld, but it was said that he had been approached by promoters of the plan and had promised to co-operate. Haverhill would play its games in what is known as Athletic Park, about a mile from the centre of the city.

Time Not Ripe for Club in Lynn, Says Fraser

Lynn, Jan. 15.—Eugene B. Fraser, formerly prominent in the New England League, said today that because of the absence of available grounds and a keen interest in semi-pro baseball he did not think Lynn would be included in a New England League circuit this year.

"A few years from now league baseball might be successfully conducted," he added, "but not now. There are no grounds and no possible available site."

Big Manchester Men Interested in League

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 15.—Manchester baseball fans, interested in the revival of the New England League, have moved to secure a franchise if possible. President Charles W. Tobey, of the Chamber of Commerce; John Smith, who managed the 1902 Manchester team, and ex-Mayor William C. Clarke, who was a director in 1902, are interested in the plan.

Portland Is Eager to Have eague Team

Portland, Me., Jan. 15.—Local parties have asked an option on Hayrick Park for New England League purposes, but were said today to be acting for outside promoters.

This park, built for Hugh Duffy's New England team of 1913(is controlled by the Portland Baseball Association. It reverts to the city this year under a ten-year agreement if the association will decide this week whether to exercise an option of renewal.

Portland, declared by Duffy to be the best minor league city in New England, was said to seem eager for league ball this year. The Portland Club won the pendant in 1910.

Brockton, Jan. 15.—John E. Blake, former New England and Colonial League baseball owner in this city, said today that he had been considering the possibility of taking a franchise in the revived New England League. A suitable park is lacking here at present, but Mr. Blake did not think this would preclude his taking a franchise.

ENTRE NOUS CLUB AFTER DATES

The Entre Nous Club of Roxbury are classed among the best basketball fives around the Hub. This outfit have engaged in ten games and won nine and lost only one.

Bill Dawe

The team is represented on the floor by Kelsman and Wolf, forwards; Hughes, centre, and D. Schnetzer and Hagerty, backs.

Teams weighing around 85-90 pounds and willing to book a good attraction may communicate with Manager Bill Dawe by calling Roxbury 2885-M.

LOOKOUT FIVE IS AFTER GAMES

The Lookout five of Roxbury is prepared to meet all fast 110-115 pound basketball teams around Brighton Boston. This outfit has a few open dates and is anxious to get in action.

James Lynch.

The quintet is made up of the following players: Killian and Horne, forwards; Quatrano, Murphy, Wallace and James Lynch, backs, and John Doyle, centre.

Teams desiring to book this good attraction write Thomas Hillian, No. 128 Winthrop street, Roxbury, or Telephone Roxbury 4003.

NOTRE DAME RELAY TEAMS ENTER MEET

DORCHESTER AND HYDE PARK HAVE MEET

By FRED C. LANE.

Dorchester High's track team will be given the acid test on Wednesday and Thursday when it will meet Hyde Park High in a dual meet at the Dorchester gymnasium. The affair is the opening of the track schedule for both teams.

There is little to choose between the teams, if the stars of both schools are considered, but Dorchester, because of a strong sedentary class may carry off the award. Hyde Park is strong in the intermediate and junior divisions, as usual.

Interest in track sports is keen at Dorchester. Almost eighty lads have worked out daily on the gym floor for the stiff schedule that has been arranged.

The Intermediate class is stronger this year than ever. The same can be said of the junior class which has an exceptionally large number of youngsters seeking honors in the running events.

Although Coach Greendegast has given out no official list of starters, it is evident because of their showings of the past week in practice that the following will start in the events:

Senior Dash, Phil Hearn, M. Gilbert and Gobbi; 300 yards run, McDonald, Brown and McQuirk; Olson and Hattigan in the 600, Joyce in the 1,000, Chase and McDonald in the high jump, Captain Frank Woods, McQuirk and Chase in the circles and Brown, McQuirk and Woods in the shot put.

Intermediates: Doran in the dash, Ioseo and Healy in the 220, Doran in the hurdles, Sprengel in the road jump, and Healy and Nease in the shotput.

Juniors: Gladigan and Silva in the 50 and 440 yard dashes, the High and broad jump.

Dave Cohen, captain of the Dorchester football team has been discharged from the hospital, where he underwent an operation on his toe. The injury was sustained during the football season and prevented this versatile athlete from defending the hockey title.

The Dorchester High Athletic Association set an example that other schools in the city should copy. As it recently raised enough sufficient money from the treasury to outfit the track team.

The officials staging the Greater Boston Interscholastic meet to be held at the Huntington Avenue Gymnasium on February 17, announced that the following schools have signified intentions to compete: Boston College High, Brookline, Cambridge Latin, Fairhaven, Lynn Classical, Medford, Mission, Newton, Nobles and Greenough, Pawtucket, Point, St. John's Prep, Rindge Tech, Roxbury Latin and Wakefield.

The Huntington hockey team was humbled by Pomfret School at Pomfret on Saturday. The team is built around Ayles Lane and Robert Dale, formerly of Melrose High.

Larry Simmons, Huntington school's dash man, turned in a fine performance in the recent Hunting-in-Medford meet. Larry had only two days of training and the speed he displayed in such a short space of training causes one to believe he'll be a big help to the former swimmers' star.

BOXING FANS RATE STAR WELTERS

BY RINGSIDE.

Jack Bulger, manager of Mickey Walker, asked Jack Conway to help him in rating the welterweight division. The Boston American's little expert immediately asked the fans of New England to give their opinions.

Thomas T. Scott of No. 315 Main street, Everett, rates our welterweights as follows: Dave Shade, Eddie Shevlin, Mickey Walker, George Ward, Paul Doyle.

He adds he considers Jack Britton retired. Otherwise he adds he would rate Britton first.

J. Karem, Gloucester: Dave Shade, Eddie Shevlin, Paul Doyle, Pete Latzo, George Ward.

Myer Nelson, No. 204 Townsend street, Roxbury: Mickey Walker, Jack Britton, Dave Shade, George Ward and Eddie Shevlin.

Leo Smith, No. 433 Broad street, Portsmouth, N. H.: Britton, Shade, Shevlin, Ward, Doyle.

What's your list?

Send it along and we shall be glad to publish it.

PHILLIES' MANAGER TALKS WITH BAKER

Philadelphia, Jan. 15. — "Art" Fletcher, new manager of the Phillies, arrived here from his home in Collinsville, Ill., to confer with President Baker and Business Manager Shetsline regarding club policies.

"As far as trades are concerned," said Fletcher, "I am not prepared to say anything yet. I am here for a short stay and will occupy most of my time talking over club policies."

LEE ANDERSON IN BID FOR TITLE

Lee Anderson, former world's colored light heavyweight champion, will make a bid for the New England title when he clashes with Sherry Robinson of Somerville in a scheduled bout at the Armory A's show at Grand Opera house tomorrow night. Anderson is one of the few men who have conquered Kid Norfolk. Lee rocked the Black Panther to sleep in nine rounds in a tussle staged at Phoenix Arts. Anderson also gave Norfolk a couple of stiff battles in this city.

Lee Anderson.

It was five years ago that Anderson last quarreled with Robinson. The affair was staged at Business Man's Club in Roxbury, and resulted in a victory for Robinson. Since then Anderson has battled in virtually every part of this country and has piled up an impressive array of victories.

It will be interesting to see Robinson pitted against an opponent who will bring out all of his fighting qualities. In Robinson's last Boston start, he knocked out Hambone Kelly. The Cambridge negro is one of the best boxers of his weight in this country, but on account of his unquestioned ability, he has often found it difficult getting matches.

Benny Morelle of East Boston will take the place of Frank Merna against Willie Garr of the North End in the semi-final of eight rounds.

Mickey Carson of Quincy and Bob Conlon of Charlestown will box eight rounds, as will Al Lewis of the South End and Jimmy Smith of Brockton.

JIMMY PARKS IS ROLLING SOME

One of the best bowlers in the Boston Jewelers' League is Jimmy Parks, who is a traveling man by trade. Parks, who is bowling on the Hodgson-Kennard Company team, needs no introduction when it comes his turn to roll the ball, as he busts the pins square. It is nothing for him to get an official scorer to check up spares and strikes opposite his name.

Jimmy Parks.

Tomorrow evening the following teams will roll: Ripley, Howland Manufacturing vs. Harkins, Kirby & Murphy, Thomas Long Company vs. A. Stowell & Co., E. B. Horne Company vs. Higelow, Kennard & Co., E. Alberts Sons vs. Lamson Jewelery Company, Shreve, Crump & Low Company vs. Smith Patterson Company and D. C. Percival & Co. vs. Hodgson, Kennard & Co.

Jack Bird, a fifteen-year-old Wollaston boy, has sent his boost for the GOLD SKATES RACES in the form of a cartoon in which he pictures incidents which may occur. Jack, who is a freshman in Quincy High School, already is becoming quite famous as an artist. He is the leading skatch specialist for The Golden Rod, the Quincy High monthly, and his posters on the athletic activities of the school created much favorable comment last Fall. Jack, by the way, was the winner of one of the Arts Crafts Exposition prizes offered through the Boston American.

BUSINESS NOTICE

OIL WARS COSTLY, SENATORS ARE TOLD

Washington, Jan. 15.—The Senate Oil Investigating Committee today was told by L. V. Nicholas of Omaha, president of the National Petroleum Marketers' Association, that "there is no real independence in the oil industry."

"Competition in the oil industry," said Mr. Nicholas, "is dependent on a type of transportation and on a system of prices over which we independents, as distinguished from the Standard group, have no control. If we start competition we go up against a series of reprisals that discourages one against trying the experiment more than once."

'LOUD SPEAKER' CAN BE MADE FOR 50 CENTS

With the free vacuum tube contest scarcely a day old, many ingenious radio "wrinkles" have been received, three of which are described today.

The best suggestion that is offered each week will win a free WD-11 vacuum tube. This is the new tube that operates on one dry cell. Any kind of a suggestion, including original hook-ups, may be offered, if it is new and practicable. The winner of each week's contest will be announced the following Monday.

Suggestions will be published during the week, but if a particular suggestion is not published, it does not mean that it is not eligible for the prize.

The suggestion offered by Carl Marsen of Jamaica Plain to go with figure 1 of the accompanying illustration follows:

IMPROVES ADJUSTMENT.

Condenser adjustments in the advanced VT circuits must be so critical that I have found of great value the following device.

After considerable usage, the shafts of variable condensers, etc., become loosened, and when mounted on the panel in the usual way, much trouble is caused by the instrument "falling out" of adjustment.

To overcome this I devised a horizontal method of mounting, as shown in the illustration, which is self-explanatory. The dial is one of the large, tapered type, and projects through the slot in the panel. The dial can be tuned easily with the thumb and fine adjustments secured.

Suggestion offered by Anthony E. Ragusa of West Third street (Fig 2):

I have a diagram of a loud-speaker which I made and got satisfactory results with. It is good for beginners whose purses are empty. It consists of an ordinary plumber's pipe, about 2½ inches long, two feet of ¼ inch copper tubing, coiled, which may be purchased in any hardware store, and a large funnel, which may be bought in a five and ten cent store. Total cost, fifty cents.

Suggestion offered by W. S. Urquhart of Roslindale:

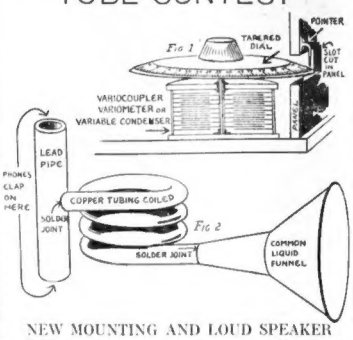
In winding coils for a radio set I experienced considerable trouble in taking off taps. Taps taken off in the usual way have a tendency to stretch the turn to which they were attached by pulling the wire away from the tube, and the loose wire broke very easily.

MAKES BETTER TAPS.

In order to remedy this, I twisted the taps in the usual way right up close to the tube, bent the loop down, wound the next two turns over the tap, took out the tap, and then proceeded to wind in the usual way. This makes a very firm and neat looking coil, without any of the usual gaps or slack turns, and a coil that will stand a reasonable amount of rough handling.

Good work, fans. Now let's hear from the rest of you. Suggestions will be received right up to Saturday noon of each week for consideration in that week's bunch.

SUGGESTIONS IN WD-11 TUBE CONTEST



NEW MOUNTING AND LOUD SPEAKER

Fig. 1 shows ingenious method of mounting a variable condenser, variocoupler, or variometer on a panel so as to present a neat appearance.

Fig. 2 shows an inexpensive loud-speaker which one fan claims can be made at home for fifty cents. See accompanying story.

'MOSES' BROKE ON WAY TO HOLY LAND

Honolulu, T. H., Jan. 14 (By Associated Press).—Ira Colver Sparks, the "praying carpenter" from Peru, Ind., who shipped himself to this port from San Francisco in a box labelled "freight" and who landed in jail when he was forced to dig out for fresh air after five days aboard a Japanese steamer in his coffin-like compartment, has been released from custody.

The Indiana stowaway proved a puzzle to the authorities, who read stacks of law books in an effort to find out some legitimate charge that could be preferred against him, but as he wasn't a vagrant, or an alien, and apparently had committed no crime in shipping himself as freight, there was nothing to do but release him.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR IN A MOMENT

Try This! Hair Appears Soft, Colorful and Abundant —A Gleamy Mass

35 Cent Bottle of "Danderine" Also Ends Dandruff; Falling Hair!

Immediately!—your hair becomes beautiful. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and really appear twice as thick and abundant—a mass of luxuriant, glossy, colorful hair.

Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine eradicates dandruff, invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is the best, cheapest and most delightful hair corrective and tonic. It is to the hair what fresh showers of rain are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, vitalizes and strengthens them. Its stimulating properties help the hair to grow long, heavy, strong.

You can surely have beautiful hair, and lots of it, if you will spend 35 cents for a bottle of Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter. It is not greasy, oily or sticky.

DAD ANSWERS 400 PROPOSALS TO HEIRESSES

New York, Jan. 15.—Celestina Pinola of Weehawken, N. J., left $10,000 by her grandmother, is laughing herself fat these days.

So is her sister, Marie, heiress to one-fifteenth of grandmother's estate.

And so is father, Dr. Ferdinand Pinola, wealthy importer.

In fact, father is having more fun than anybody.

He is answering more than 400 letters, all in the negative, billet-doux sent Celestina and Marie from aspiring Romeos. The girls are his secretaries.

In their spacious library at Weehawken they re-read the missives, have 400 good laughs, and invite discouraging replies—replies full of advice and all that sort of thing.

Just as soon as the world discovered that the girls had been left fortunes, the world's little brothers took pen in hand and proposed.

The list of letter writers takes in everybody from a Scotch peer more than a half-century old to a Montana rancher. The writers are all alike in one respect—they are poor.

"Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Boston for week ending Saturday, Jan. 13th, on shipments sold out, ranged from 7.05 cents to 12.25 cents per pound and averaged 12.02 cents per pound."—Advt.

The process of answering so many letters, each individually, has been painful, but funny, to the doctor and his chic secretaries.

BULLETIN
From Our Greatest Sale of Oriental Rugs
STILL GOING ON

WE prophesied that this would be the greatest rug sale in our history—and it has far surpassed even our confident hopes.

This is not to be wondered at; the marvel would be if it were otherwise. We are presenting a really extraordinary opportunity to select from Oriental rugs of the finer to finest sorts (now difficult to find) at prices which would have seemed low even a dozen years ago when such qualities were more commonly seen.

The lot is large. We bought it at a very low figure and are selling it, like any other merchandise, at prices as low as cost will permit—although hundreds of pieces really deserve much higher prices for their rarity, their beauty and fine condition.

The sale goes on. A walk through the Rug Department shows that good choosing still remains.

Long Hall Trackers

These strips are from Persia, Kurdistan, Turkey and Asia Minor in characteristic weaves of these countries. Widths range from 2½ to 4 feet; lengths from 9 to 15 feet. Some of these are antique, others semi-antique.

Four Piles of Fine Rugs at 45.00

These offer extraordinary opportunities for choosing among Daghestans, Shirvans, Gengies, Kazaks, Mosuls, and Kurdistans. Chiefly in the medium sizes. A few of these are antiques; many are semi-antiques. 55.00, 75.00, 95.00 and a few as high as 125.00

Many Very Desirable Rugs at $35

These are in smaller sizes, but are good examples of the best weaves known to the rug expert.

Finer Weaves at Low Prices

These are the finer weaves, in medium sizes—Sarouk, Kurdistan, Karabagh, Chichi and especially good Daghestans. Choice colors. These rugs can be purchased at 55.00, 65.00, 75.00.

Rare Antiques—Not High Priced

There are a number of small groups of rare antiques and semi-antiques from Persia and the Turkoman districts. Some of these deserve cataloguing among museum pieces, but they are priced only 85.00 to 95.00 with a few up to 150.00.

Chandler & Co. know rugs. You may take seriously anything we say about them. And we say now—DO NOT OVERLOOK THIS OPPORTUNITY. We commend it to the attention of every one interested in acquiring fine rugs at low prices.

QUINCY COAL GOUGERS ARE CHARGING $18 A TON

Plane Victims in Battle With Sharks

GRUESOME SCENE AT WRECK

Mrs. Atkins Prostrated While Searchers Take Up Hunt for the Bodies

Key West, Fla., Jan. 15.—While Mrs. Edward F. Atkins, Jr., of Belmont, Mass., cried for her husband and little sons, searchers today took up the seemingly impossible task of looking for them and for the governess, Miss Grace McDonald, who met death when the seaplane, Columbus, fell twenty miles outside of Havana.

Physicians working over Mrs. Atkins expect she will recover and they tell her that her little boys and her husband are resting comfortably and may be with her soon, but it is very doubtful if she ever sees their bodies for the black fins of sharks were seen cutting the water near the place of disaster.

Mrs. Atkins and the other survivors, Miss Julia Haverty of Belmont, Mass., a nurse, W. E. Miller, the pilot, and Otto Abraham of New York, a mechanician, were in the front part of the cabin when the big seaplane crumpled and fell into the sea. They clambered out through windows and clung to the wreckage till rescued.

KILLED IN CRASH.

No, too, did Mr. Atkins, but a big wave broke over the wing he was on and his body disappeared in the water. The little boys were killed in the crash which smashed the rear of the cabin.

As the victims hung to the teetering debris that grew more slippery and rickety with each succeeding wave they noted two black fins spitting the water and speeding to them.

More fins. The water seemed to boil. The sinister churning impressed on the hair conscious victims the horror that waited them unless help came quickly.

GIRL RESCUED.

A wave rocked the wreck, Miss Haverty rolled off. Two fins clove the water. Miller dove in, swam to Miss Haverty's side, thrust an arm about her and swam back to the wreckage. The black fins raced after Miller crawled and dragged the woman after him a few inches ahead of the shiny shark teeth that glinted so horribly through the water.

Boatmen who started out to grapple for the bodies had little hope of success, for the sharks thereabouts are especially voracious. Then, too, the water is very deep and the wreck has been moved some distances by the waves and tide.

1 DEAD, 2 DYING, OF POISON LIQUOR

One man is dead, two others are dying and several are seriously ill of poisonous liquor imbibed during the week-end.

Walter M. Kane, 49, colored, of No. 476 Tremont street, was found dead in his bed by his landlord, William Forbes. Police were told that Kane came home intoxicated.

Three unidentified men are dangerously ill at the City Hospital, suffering from alcoholism.

Somerville Snow Plow So Fast It Catches Fire

They do things in a hurry in Somerville. Today an Elevated snow plow worked so fast out there that it became overheated and caught fire.

The plow had reached the corner of Beacon and Ivaloo streets when the crew smelled smoke. A call was sent in for the fire department. When the firemen arrived the flames had gained a good start in the under part of the plow.

CASH GIFT TO TWINS

PHILIP AND PHYLLIS SAMPSON.

A gift of $48.34 to Philip and Phyllis Sampson, infant twins of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sampson of Marblehead, has been received by Mr. Sampson from Town Clerk Litchman.

Mr. Litchman is carrying out the terms of the will of James J. H. Gregory, who left a fund, the income of which was to be divided among the parents of twins, each year.

Mr. Sampson has placed the money in the bank until such time as the two children become old enough to use it.

NEW HAVEN TO GIVE HEARING TO SUFFERERS

The train service committee of Quincy Chamber of Commerce is to tell its grievances against the New Haven Railroad passenger train service next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the South Station offices of the road to some official of the operating department.

President Fred E. Bergfors of the Chamber has sent out a call for a mass meeting of Quincy commuters at the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night, when the train service committee will receive any specific complaints that are submitted.

President Bergfors also asked that any commuters who cannot be at the mass meeting, but who have complaints to make regarding the service, to file them in writing with Secretary Alfred R. N. Ledreque of the Chamber by Wednesday night, so that they may be added to the evidence.

Only specific complaints, naming the train, station and train delay, or other troubles, are desired, not merely general complaints. The train committee desires facts and details, such material as will counteract that submitted by the committee to the railroad executive Thursday morning.

ALL HAVE SUFFERED.

Quincy stations on the New Haven include Quincy, Quincy Adams, West Quincy, Montclair, Norfolk Downs, Atlantic and Wollaston, all of whose commuters have suffered delays this Winter.

Telephone voice to the Boston American today:

"I wish to tell you about the train that I came up on from Newport Sunday.'

"Yes, was it late?"

"That's just it. It wasn't late. It was two minutes ahead of time arriving at the South Station. That's why I called you up. This was the 2:10 out of Newport. It lost time to Taunton, leaving Taunton eight minutes late. But it hustled right along the rest of the way and hit Boston at 5:30, two minutes ahead of time.

DELAYS COURT SESSION.

Middlesex Superior Court sessions at East Cambridge were delayed today on account of late trains on the Boston & Maine. Some jurymen and defendants, who arrived tarty, reported that their trains were late.

Judge Sisk had defaulted two defendants who had failed to appear when court opened, but when he heard of other defendants being delayed by late trains, he ordered a recess which would enable defendants, delayed by railroad conditions, to avoid being defaulted.

POLICE HUNTING ROXBURY BOY WHO VANISHED

The police of Roxbury and Boston are searching for sixteen-year-old Otis M. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Miller of No. 3 Gilnes avenue, Roxbury.

Otis disappeared from his home on Tuesday. His mother had given him four War Savings certificates, valued at $20, to cash. The boy left his home for that purpose and has not been seen since.

His parents say that he had no love affair, did not drink or gamble, and was an exemplary youth, well-rated in his studies at the West Roxbury High School. He is an only son and the mother is distracted.

When he left home he was dressed in a dark suit, brown boots and a navy blue sweater. He is five feet nine inches tall, weighs 145 pounds, has light hair and blue-gray eyes and is extremely well-built.

Anybody who has knowledge of his whereabouts can ease the heart of his anxious mother by communicating with her.

NARCOTIC HEAD URGES PUBLIC TO HELP HIM

William D. Allen, former chief of the narcotic bureau at Honolulu, today took charge of the Boston narcotic office. He will be chief executive of the investigation and prosecution work in New England.

He succeeds William P. Scannell, who has been acting agent in charge since the removal of Dr. Erwin C. Ruth, former head of the bureau.

One of Mr. Allen's first official duties today was to call upon the public to help him in ridding the city of the dope scourge. He asks fraternal and civic organization to launch campaigns to bring to the attention of the members and the public at large the extent of the drug traffic here.

He also asks the public to help him in the prosecution of dispensers. He said today that a person who knows of a person or persons peddling dope and does not give the information to the authorities is as guilty as the seller.

He guaranteed that all information received at his office will be considered as confidential and he promises that the name of the informer will not be mentioned in court if prosecution follows.

NO. END BOY FALLS FROM PIER IN PARK

While playing in the North End Park, Joseph Mecurio, 10 years old, of No. 22 Henchman street, fell from the pier. He managed to wade ashore, as the water was only two feet deep. He hurried home immediately, and was picked up on the street by Patrolman Curry of Station 1, who rushed him to the Relief Hospital, where he was reported suffering from cold.

PRISONER IDENTIFIED BY HOLDUP VICTIM

A man giving the name of John Burke, and a Massachusetts avenue address, was arrested today and later identified by Francis Hominey, store keeper of No. 743 Tremont street, as the man who held him up in his store at that address last Friday. Hominey says Burke struck him on the head with a gun after taking $60 from him.

HELD FOR THREATS TO GIRLS

South End Man Arrested in Court Corridor, Charged With Obstructing Justice

Harry Martin, alias Harry Lanusses of the South End, was arrested in the Municipal Court corridor today charged with tampering with and obstructing justice. The arrest was made by Inspector Cronin and Sergeant O'Donnell.

The police charge Martin threatened bodily harm to Lillian Rioux No. 160 East Brookline street, and Anneline Keenan of No. 27 West Concord street, if they testified against one Peter Transfonia, who was charged with assault on the two girls.

The girls were waiting in the corridor for their case to come up before Judge Burke, police say, when Martin threatened them.

The police stepped in when one of the girls left the courthouse, and they explained that she left because of the threat. Martin was held in $500 and will appear tomorrow with Transfonia.

"SURE! SOMEBODY LOVES A FAT MAN!"

New York, Jan. 15 (by Universal Service).—The old adage that "no one loves a fat man" has been exploded.

Mrs. Walter Hiers is one person that does. She is the bride of the roly-poly screen comedian, who not only loves a fat man, but she sees no malice in that type.

Mrs. Walter Hiers

Before her marriage she was Alice McWilliams, daughter of a wealthy shoe manufacturer of Syracuse, N. Y. The couple were married last Friday and are here on their honeymoon. After sightseeing in New York they will go to Savannah, where Hiers was born.

Speaking of the romance in fat men, Mrs. Hiers said: "Romance in itself is merely the expression of personality, spirit and good fellowship. If a man has those qualities — and you know fat men as a rule are superabundantly endowed with them—then it follows that he can be romantic and appreciate romance.

"We met in Los Angeles in 1921 at a dinner at my home. Walter had known my dad for a long time, and dad suggested that he come and meet the girls. I have a sister, you see, and we were returning from school.

"He says he fell in love that night, and I guess it was a case of love at first sight with me."

CITY RECORD PRICE BOOSTED TO 10 CENTS

The City Record, the official publication of the city, is not paying. Therefore Mayor Curley today said the price would be advanced to 10 cents per copy or $2 a year. It has 500 subscribers. Besides the City Record the city will publish a year book to contain forty or forty-five city reports combined in one. The Mayor estimates it will save about $15,000 a year.

LOBSTERS LIKE HEN'S TEETH

So Scarce They Bring $1 a Pound; Highest Price on Record

Pity the poor chorus girl!

Reared on a diet of champagne and lobsters, first her champagne was taken away from her, and now her lobsters — the ones formerly taken from the briny deep, not the stage door variety—are becoming only a memory.

The few fish stores that are continuing to carry lobsters in stock show signs are charging from 95 cents to $1 per pound for them. This is the highest figure ever attained in the Boston market for the delicacy, which in the largest fish markets are then obtainable at any price, and the supply is daily growing smaller.

There is little prospect that the supply will increase, or the price drop, until the open season begins in Nova Scotia, May 15. The Dorothy Bickford, brought only one load. The Maine lobstermen, who imported lobsters in the summer for the Winter market, remitted some weeks ago that their pounds were empty.

A series of northwest storms along the coast has prevented lobster fishermen from setting their traps in the more exposed fishing grounds, and the sheltered ones are under thick ice.

LYNN PAID FOR COAL CITY NEVER RECEIVED

Mayor McPherres of Lynn today ordered Deputy Chief of Police Callahan to investigate a city contract to buy coal during the administration of Mayor Creamer in 1920-21. A contract as awarded at the time, it is said, for the purchase of 100 tons of coal, 50 tons of hard coal at $14 a ton and 50 tons of soft at $13.50 a ton. The coal was paid for, but never delivered.

The coal crisis is acute in Lynn. It is said that only the wealthy are able to secure hard coal. House holders of moderate means are suffering.

LOVED MOTHER OF 2, BUT MOTHER OF 5! NO!

Providence, Jan. 15.—"I will marry you and be a father to your two children." Reese Curnow told Mrs. Gloria Gaspoli and January and the following month he got a license. Before the wedding Gloria confessed she had five children. She remarried. Mrs. Gaspoli sued for breach of promise. A jury awarded her $2,150. Reese appealed. The case came up on appeal today. Decision was reserved.

OPPOSES ROXBURY GARAGE PERMIT

A petition of James J. Mistin city to build a garage and install a 1,000-gallon gasoline tank at No. 225 Humboldt avenue, Roxbury was opposed at a hearing before the street commissioners today by L. J. Rubenstein on grounds of nuisance and because it was within the limits of a schoolhouse.

Near Accidents at Franklin Park Close Toboggan Chute

After scores of persons narrowly escaped injury at the toboggan chute at Franklin Park, Police Sergeant Charles Gilman, attached to the Jamaica Plain station, stopped all sliding on the chute at 5 p. m. one hour before closing time.

Officers at Station 13 declared that the slide would be opened to the public today. One girl was seriously injured on the slide a week ago.

RARE ANTIQUES LOST IN BEACON HILL FIRE

Beacon Hill residents find their apartments scantily clad when fire partly destroyed the apartment house at No. 63 Mt. Vernon street and ruined the famous antique collection of Henry Nettleton Sweet. Damage estimated at more than $10,000 was caused.

The fire started in the fifth floor corridor at the joining apartment of Henry Nettleton Sweet, a partner in the banking firm of Hornblower & Weeks, and spread to apartments on the floor below.

The sleeping residents were awakened by the screams of Miss Mary Dion, a maid in the home of Charles A. Weare at No. 61 Mount Vernon street, who discovered the fire and telephoned the fire department.

Henry N. Sweet

Mr. Sweet is confined to the Hotel Bellevue with a severe cold as a result of his experience. He left soon after it became evident that he could not save the entire antique collection in his apartment. A valuable part exhibited at the World's Fair and reputed to be worth at least $25,000 was saved from the ruins.

The fire worked its way through the partition without awakening the occupants and had gained great headway before it was discovered. The apartment of Mrs. Anita Chase, which was occupied by Mrs. Chase and Miss Bertha Tuttle, was practically destroyed. Both women and their maids had to flee for their lives, others driven out at No. 63 Mount Vernon street were:

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Boardman, Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKone and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jacobs.

Driven from the upper floors at No. 61 Mount Vernon street were:

Mrs. Edwin Bartlett, Miss Betty Bartlett, three maids, Mrs. John Whitcomb Cotton and several maids; Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Weare, John Weare and a maid, and Mrs. Laura F. Pierce and two servants.

FUEL HEAD THREATENS LEGAL ACTION

"Company" Product Is Being Sold as "Independent," Scott Suspects

Unscrupulous coal dealers, taking advantage of present conditions, are "putting the screw" to the public, if the suspicions of at least one greater Boston Fuel Administrator is correct.

"If they are selling as "independent" coal the very same product that is known as common "company" coal and they are charging the instead of $18

SAME IN QUALITY.

There is no difference in quality between "independent" and "company" coal. The former is mined by independent workers and a higher price is charged.

Fuel Administrator John F. Scott of Quincy is frankly skeptical. Of late large quantities of coal have been sent into Quincy through Boston coal brokers. It has been sold as "independent" coal and consumers are paying the fancy price of $18 for it.

THREATENS LEGAL ACTION.

Says Mr. Scott: "It may be independent coal and it may not be. Personally I don't believe it is. I have received an investigation and I intend to find out whether or not those who sold the coal misrepresented.

"It is hard to prove whether this coal is independent or company coal. If I can get any evidence that it is the former you can rest assured that I will start legal action.

"It looks to me as though some coal users simply are taking advantage of conditions to get rich."

SAYS 8T FOR DELIVERY.

It is known that "independent" coal is being sold in other sections of Greater Boston. Mr. Scott was not prepared to say whether or not there might be graft in the sales in other communities, but confessed himself willing to entertain the doubts.

Meanwhile Winchester is having its coal troubles. Coal, but there, is selling for $16. At least that is the price at the coal yards. Drivers in Winchester insist on getting on a fee of $2 a load for carting the coal away.

LAW OBSERVED.

While coal dealers, it is pointed out, are carefully observing the canons of Chairman Hultman of the commission on the conservation of life that no laws as to $16 will be charged, that is all that do charge, in Winchester say that figure does not include delivery.

And Winchester is hot under the collar, so to speak.

Some of the more wealthy have packed up their belongings and migrated to Boston for the rest of the Winter. But in the northern part of the town, where Summer and Winter residents are one and the same thing it has been necessary to double up, so that the slender store of fuel might be spread over a longer period.

The inconsistency of the matter is the fact that residents of Winchester who purchased dealers in Malden, Medford and Somerville are getting their coal delivered into their cellars for $16. But Winchester is observing the law, so the leaders claim.

In all parts of Boston, excepting the Back Bay and the business sections, it was a common sight to see women and children drawing sleds through the streets, or a mad dragging a bag of coal behind him or a group of women rushing around the peddlers' wagons, all in pursuit of comfort.

Our Revue for 1922 Has Sports, Indoor and Outdoor, in Lead

By Les Conklin

POKER continued to lead the way to other indoor sports throughout the season.

Swimming was also very popular. Bathing suits were rather scarce, but the girls made up for it by cutting each suit into six pieces; 1,728,666 flappers were picked up at the Long Island beaches. The swimming casualties for 1922 were unusually heavy, 987,654 men going stone blind while sightseeing on the beaches.

The colleges graduated 20,661 students, some of them also receiving a degree. What is more, ninety-nine of them got jobs.

Millions of Americans went to big-league baseball games and some of them managed to get home in time for supper.

Hundreds of thousands of couples were married, half of them subsequently being divorced. The other half are waiting for the court to decide their cases.

The government collected several billion dollars in taxes and succeeded in keeping some of it despite the efforts of bankrupt European nations to borrow it.

Bridge continued to be popular with highbrow card sharks. Of the two hundred debutantes who tried to learn to play the game, ninety-nine were either shot or hanged for not leading trumps.

More than one million citizens mortgaged their homes to buy automobiles, afterward selling both home and automobile to pay repair bills.

Twenty-eight women killed their husbands and it is reported that one of them is to be hanged.

Movies retained their popularity despite the efforts of several actors to destroy it.

Telephone operators set a new record for efficiency by getting the right number for somebody before the end of June. The old record was October 30.

Taxi drivers knocked down more money and pedestrians than ever before.

Perape the greatest surprise of the year was the amazing popularity of petting. Petting has always ranked high as an indoor sport, but mothers and ministers alike were shocked by its "mush-room" growth in 1922. In the midst of the excitement two new games, necking and mugging, were invented for the children. A copy of the rules may be obtained at any of the leading tea rooms.

While in a moving picture theatre the other evening, the place was crowded and my husband and I were seated in different sections of the theatre. He, I noticed, was sitting on an end seat three seats ahead of me while I was in the centre of row. When the same part of the picture came around again I got up and went out in the lobby. I thought he would never come out, so I went back in the dark theatre to the place where he was sitting. I shook his shoulder and said, "Why under the sun don't you come out. Imagine my embarrassment when the man whose shoulder I shook was not my husband. He was standing out on the sidewalk waiting for me.

WAILS OF A BENEDICT

By Nat N. Dorfman

THEY say talk is cheap, but did you ever try saying to a girl, "Will you marry me?"

The fat girl knows she'll have a hard time finding a husband, even if the poets say, Love will find a weigh."

We don't know why they call 'em dumbwaiters when a lot of women in apartment houses do all the talking through it.

The fellow who said marriage is like a drama was wrong. Even the most successful drama ends its run.

The trouble with teaching fairy tales to girls is that by the time they become wives they don't believe 'em any more.

Love may make the world go round, but any benedict will tell you it also makes the collectors come round.

The government doesn't allow marriages by radio, but there's no ban on broadcasting other fight news.

A fellow in Milwaukee popped the question to a girl while dancing. That's what a fellow gets for not watching his step.

Marriage is a game where the loser takes all—the punishment coming to him.

It is a known fact that wives don't throw as much crockery at their husbands as they used to. Their aim has improved considerably.

In sewing circles the slogan seems to be, "As ye sew, so shall ye fib."

Medbury Says Stolen Kisses Are Sweeter But the Others Are Cheaper

By John P. Medbury

A WOMAN had a stranger arrested the other day for stealing a kiss. She said he was a total stranger and had never seen him before.

The man told the judge he was telling the truth. He said the woman was the wife of a friend of his.

This case reminded me of a story I read recently about a man who was arrested for stealing a kiss. He said he was trying to find out what perfume to buy for his wife.

The lesson in this story is that if you want to steal a kiss, be sure you steal the right one.

It is said that the reason why some women wear such short skirts is because they want to be kissed.

The woman demanded five hundred dollars damages for the kiss she received in the street car.

The defendant's attorney claimed that the person was looking for a lost dog.

Most women hate to be kissed but they love to be kissed.

THAT if a man's life is not what it ought to be, he should get busy and make it so.

That a good man is in the same category as a lazy man except that he takes up less room.

Why Turkey?

HISTORY goes to show that the turkey was at one time confounded with the quinal fowl, originally known as the turkey. This name seems to have been given it as a result of its peculiar cry of "Turk, Turk, Turk!"

THE PRIDE OF PALOMAR By PETER B. KYNE

An Engrossing Story of Southern California by the Author of "Kindred of the Dust"

START THIS NEW STORY TODAY

The story opens on the Rancho Palomar, an extensive tract in Southern California. Old Don Miguel Farrel, alone on the heavily mortgaged rancho with only his last faithful retainer, Pablo Artelan, and the latter's expansive wife, receives a telegram from the War Department at Washington announcing the death in battle in Siberia of his only son, "Don Mike." The shock kills him. Don Mike arrives and finds a family of Parkers there, including a beautiful daughter, Kay. Mr. Parker is scheming to get the ranch and sell it to the Japanese. Don Mike asks him to bid on it and then refuses to sell.

Don Mike is brought to the ranch house and lovingly attended

Is a Cosmopolitan Production, direction of Frank Borzage, and featuring Forrest Stanley and Marjorie Daw. It is released as a Paramount picture.

"SHUT up, you saddle-colored old idol," Parker roared, and shook Pablo until the latter's teeth rattled together. "If the mischief is done it can't be helped—and it was none of my making. Pull yourself together and tell me where this killing occurred. We've got to get Don Miguel's body."

For answer Pablo snarled and tried to stab him, so Parker, recalling a fragment of the athletic lore of his youth, got a wristlock on the old man and took the dirk away from him. "Now, then," he commanded, as he bumped Pablo's head against the adobe wall, "you behave yourself and help me find Don Miguel and bring him in."

Pablo's fury suddenly left him; again he was the servant, respectful, deferential to his master's guest. "Forgive me, senor," he muttered. "I have been crazy in the head."

"Not so crazy that you didn't do a good job on that Jap murderer. Come, now, old chap. Buck up! We can't go after him in my automobile. Have you some sort of wagon?"

"Si, senor."

"Then come inside a moment. We both need a drink. We're shaking like a pair of dotards."

He picked up Pablo's dirk and gave it back to the old man. Pablo acknowledged this courtesy with a bow and followed to Parker's room, where the latter poured two glasses of whiskey. Silently they drank.

"Gracias, senor. I go hitch up one team," Pablo promised, and disappeared at once.

For about ten minutes Parker remained in his room, thinking. His wife and Kay had arrived afoot, to visit the Mission shortly after Don Mike and Pablo had left the ranch that morning, and for this Parker was duly grateful to Providence. He shuddered to think what the effect upon them would have been had they been present when Pablo made his spectacular entrance; he rejoiced at an opportunity to get himself in hand against the return of Kay and her mother to the ranch house.

"That wretched Okada!" he groaned. "He concluded that the simplest and easiest way to an immediate consummation of our interrupted deal would be the removal of young Farrel. So he hired one of his countrymen to do the job, believing our hearts hoping, that suspicion would naturally be aroused against that Basque. Lucusiaki, who is known to have an old feud with the Farrels. Kate is right. I've trained with white men all my life; the moment I started to train with pigmented mongrels and Orientals I had to do with a new psychology with mongrelized moral codes—ah, God, that splendid, manly fellow killed by the insatiable lust of an alien race for this land of his they covet! God forgive me! And poor Kay—!"

He was near to tears now; fearful that he might be caught in a moment of weakness he fled to the barn and helped Pablo hitch a team of draft horses to an old spring wagon. Pablo's customary taciturnity and primitive stoicism had again descended upon him like a protecting garment; his madness had passed and he moved around the team briskly and efficiently. Parker climbed to the seat beside him as Pablo gathered up the reins and started out of the farmyard at a fast trot.

Ten minutes later they paused at the mouth of the draw down which Farrel had been riding when fired upon. Pablo turned the team, tied them to an oak tree and started up the draw at a swift dog trot, with Parker at his flanks.

Found Don Mike

Jammed rather tightly in a narrow little dry watercourse that ran through the centre of the draw they found the body of Don Mike. He was lying face downward; Parker saw that flies already resented a wound thick with blood clots on top of his head.

"Poor, poor boy," Parker cried agonizedly.

Pablo straddled the little watercourse, got a grip around his master's body and lifted it out deficiently. Parker climbed to the seat beside him as Pablo gathered up the reins and started out of the farmyard at a fast trot.

de Cristo! Look to me, Don Miguel. All, little dam' fool, you make believe to die, no?" he charged hysterically.

Don Mike's black eyes opened slightly and his slack lower jaw tightened in a ghastly grimace. The transported Pablo seized him and shook him furiously, meanwhile deluging Don Mike with a stream of affectionate profanity that fell from his lips like a benediction.

"Listen," Don Mike murmured presently. "Pablo's new litany."

"Rascal! Little, wicked heretic! Blood of the devil! Speak, Don Miguel."

"Shut up! Took your—time—getting me—out—confounded ditch —damned—lazy—beggar—"

"Shut up! Took your—time—getting me—out—confounded ditch —damned—lazy—beggar—"

Pablo leaped to his feet, his dusky face radiant. "You hear?" he yelled. "Senor Parker, you hear those boy give to me hell like old times, no?"

"You ran—you colorado madure good-for-nothing—left me stuck in ditch—let bushwhacker—get away —fix you for this, Pablo."

Pablo's eyes popped in ecstasy. He grinned like a gargoyle. "You hear those boy, senor?" he reiterated happily. "I tell you those boy he like ol' Pablo. The night he comes back he rub my head, yesterday he poke the rib of me with the thumb—now pretty soon he say something. I bet you."

"Shut up. I tell you." Don Mike's voice, though very faint, was petulant. "You're a total idiot. Find my horse—get rifle—trail that man—who shot me—get him—damn your prayers—get him—"

"Ah, Don Miguel," Pablo assured him in spanish, in tones that were pitiful beyond measure, "that unfortunate fellow has been shaking hands with the devil for the last forty-five minutes."

Don Mike opened his eyes widely. He was rapidly regaining his full consciousness. "Your work, Pablo?"

"Mine—with the help of God, as your illustrious grandfather, the first Don Miguel, would have said. But you are pleased to doubt me so I shall show you the carcass of the animal. I roped him and dragged him for two miles behind the black mare."

Closed His Eyes

Don Mike smiled and closed his eyes. "I will go home," he said presently, and Pablo and Parker lifted him between them and carried him down to the waiting wagon. Half an hour later he was stretched on his bed at the hacienda, while Carolina washed his head with a solution of warm water and lysol. John Parker, rejoiced beyond measure, stood beside him and watched the operation with an alert and sympathetic eye.

"That doesn't look like a bullet wound," he declared, after an examination of the rent in Don Mike's scalp. "Resembles the wound made by what reporters always refer to as 'some blunt instrument.' The scalp is split but the flesh around the wound is swollen as from a blow. You have a nice lump on your head, Farrel."

"Aches terribly," Don Mike murmured. "I had dismounted to tighten my cinch; going down hill the saddle had slid up on my horse's withers. I was working in the latigo. When I woke up I was lying on my face, wedged tightly in that little dry ditch. I was ill and dizzied and too weak to pull myself out; I was lying with my head down hill and I suppose I lost consciousness again, after awhile. Pablo!"

"Si, senor."

"You caught the man who shot me. What did you do with him?"

"Oh, those fellow plenty good and dead, Don Miguel."

Dragged Body

"He dragged the body home at the end of his rope," Parker explained. "His thought you had been alone for and he must have gone war mad. I covered the body of the Jap with straw from the stack out by the barn."

"Jap, eh?" Don Mike smiled. Then, after a long silence. "I suppose, Mr. Parker, you understand now—"

"Yes, yes, Farrel. Please do not rub it in."

"Okada wants the San Gregorio rather badly, doesn't he? Couldn't wait. The enactment of that anti-alien land bill that will come up in the legislature next year — do Mrs. Parker and your daughter know about this attempt to assassinate me?"

"No."

"They must not know. Plant that Jap somewhere and do it quickly. Confound you, Pablo, you should have known better than to drag your hill home, like an old she-cat bringing in a gopher. As for my head—well, I was thrown from my horse and struck on a sharp rock. The ladies would be frightened and worried if they thought somebody was gunning for me. When Bill Conway shows up with your spark plugs I'd be obliged, Mr. Parker, if you'd run me in to El Toro. I'll have to have my head tailored a trifle, I think."

With a weak wave of his hand he dismissed everybody. So Parker and Pablo adjourned to the stables to talk over the events of the morning. Standing patiently at the corral gate they found the gray horse, waiting to be unsaddled—a favor which Pablo proceeded at once to extend.

Mrs. Parker called suddenly and directed Parker's attention to the pommel of Don Mike's fancy saddle. The rawhide covering on the shank of the pommel had been torn and scored and the steel beneath lay exposed. "You see?" Pablo queried. "You understand, senor?"

"No, I must confess I do not, Pablo."

"Don Miguel is standing beside theses horse. He makes tighter the saddle, he is tying those latigo and he have the head bent beetle bit while he pull those latigo through the ring. Bang! Those Jap shoot at Don Miguel. He miss, but the bullet she split down pommel, she go flat against the steel, she bounce off and hit Don Miguel on top the head. The force for head boom is use up when the bullet hit theses pommel, but still those bullet got plenty force for knock Don Miguel senseless, no?"

"Spent ball, eh? I think you're right, Pablo."

YOUR BEAUTY

NEW SERIES OF AUTHORITATIVE ARTICLES

By Maria Jeritza,

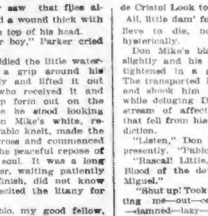
The Famous Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

THERE'S no such a very close connection between a woman's teeth and the beauty of her smile that the one topic can hardly be discussed without including the other.

Many women make the mistake of thinking that in order to be attractive they must constantly smile. Nothing could be further from the truth. A perfectly serious face can be charming and in every way attractive, while a smiling face is never attractive unless the smile is sincere and spontaneous. A forced smile is almost a grimace and adds about as much to the general gayety as a death's head at a feast.

Then there is the so-called "smile" of sarcasm or ridicule. But we may dismiss this type of smile without another thought, because, of course, it isn't a real smile. For a genuine smile is essentially kindly. It is a natural [illegible] and hence thought and may be winning and cheering be-[illegible] it would do away [illegible] pros. A true smile never makes another feel inferior or uncomfortable.

If you would make your smile



the glorious asset it should be to your beauty never smile, then, unless you feel irresistibly like smiling—never try to smile. But if you are brimming over with health and happiness and good will—and almost all of your glorious American girls positively effervesce with gayety and sparkling fun—then in that case you will smile often and irresistibly, and your smile will be not only attractive but dazzingly lovely.

At least it will be if you have taken proper care of your lips and your teeth.

Remember, a smile cannot be beautiful if it reveals teeth that are ugly. To avoid this condition, visit your dentist every six months and let him keep your teeth strong and healthy. But you yourself can help him preserve their white beauty by carefully observing a few easy rules of oral hygiene.

Here they are—very simple suggestions which I believe you will find pleasant to make a part of your daily regime:

First, drink plenty of water. Always begin and end the day with a glassful, either not too hot or not too cold. This tends to keep your teeth clean and your mouth fresh.

Next, drink milk as its mineral contents are excellent for the teeth. Fresh fruit and such foods as celery and nuts, because they require chewing, are also good.

Brush your teeth twice daily with a good tooth paste or paste. There are many excellent tooth pastes and powders to be purchased in any drug store. But here is a formula which has proved its worth and which is recommended by dentists, especially for the person whose teeth are too soft for the sweeter powders and pastes:

Powered orris root .... 1 ounce
Precipitated chalk .... 1 ounce

Mix these ingredients well. Once or twice a week use, instead, powdered pumicestone, which will remove any trace of tartar. Scrub your teeth thoroughly but not too hard and use both a horizontal and vertical stroke of the brush.

Make sure that your teeth are sound, healthy and white, and if you are happy—and like to make others happy—your sunshiny smile will be irresistibly lovely.

THE VOGUE FOR FUR

By Rita Stuyvesant

THE short fur jacket is enjoying considerable vogue this season, and it seems the shorter the jacket, the smarter. One finds this type of coat not only for sports wear, but for afternoon occasions. All sorts of fur is being used and the box coat is running a close rival to the bloused jacket for informal wear.

For instance there is a moleskin jacket with sleeves that blouse into tight wristbands, and pockets at each side, the latter somewhat unusual. The collar is of the deep revere style, pointed at the front. With this stunning jacket the smart woman wears a one-piece frock of black velvet, banded at the bottom with mole skin, and small hat to match.

Caracul jacquettes are interesting for the younger set and are fashioned with fox collars. Some are gray, platinum, beige, brown or black, and are usually worn with a frock of velvet or duvetyn, in a harmonizing shade. Many clever costumes are designed by hanging a jacquette and frock of contrasting colors, the frock being trimmed with caracul like the jacket.

DAVID CHATS WITH MRS. SEAL

"MY GOODNESS!" David Duck laughed, as he stepped up beside the large tank and looked down at the seal basking in the sunlight. "No wonder you seals can swim with those great, big flat feet of yours."

"Yes, I agree that my feet are rather large," replied Mrs. Seal, "but as for their helping me to swim, I think you're wrong."

"What! You mean to say those feet don't help you in swimming."

"My Feet Are Rather Large."

David asked. "They look like ducks' feet, only they turn back ward instead of forward. You say they don't help you in swimming? Why, if I had feet like those I could swim any old place."

"You mean you think you could," Mrs. Seal laughed mockingly. "But that just goes to show you know nothing at all about a seal or you wouldn't say that. Haven't you ever seen a seal swim?"

"No, I can't say that I have," replied David, "You see I've never seen any except you seals in the tanks in the zoo."

"Then I'll not make fun of you," said Mrs. Seal. "I'll show you just how we seals do it." She paddled over to the edge of the tank, slid gracefully into the water, and without even so much as moving her front feet, she glided gracefully across the tank and back again.

"Now, I guess you see how much use my front feet are to me while in the water," she laughed, as she climbed out upon the bank and shook the water from her shiny skin. "But I couldn't do without them."

"What are they good for, then?" David asked. "I always thought they acted as oars."

"You know, we seals have to walk on land as well as swim in the water," replied Mrs. Seal. "Well, they help us in walking. The fact is, we couldn't walk on land without them. Then, too, they help us in caring for our babies. I must say, though, that we're anything but graceful out of the water."

Mrs. Seal waddled along the ground. David laughed, and she joined him. "I don't blame you for laughing, for I know we're funny-looking when we try to walk. But, pshaw! We're not like the fish. We have to breathe air. Why, we have lungs and breathe air just like you boys do. But we can stay under water for fifteen or twenty minutes without coming up for air. That's something I'll bet you can't do."

"Well, I guess I can't," David laughed. Just then he heard his mama calling.

Bidding his friend good-by and promising to come back some day, David hurried away, and Mrs. Seal slid off into the cool water of the tank.

ETIQUETTE POINTERS

By Ann Adams

DEAR MISS ADAMS:

Will you please give me your advice on this matter? Is it not proper to sign "Mrs." to the signature at the end of a letter to designate that the lady is married?

ANSWER: Business correspondence permits the prefix "Mrs." to be used, but it is enclosed in parenthesis, as signing any document the lady should use her own given name, and if married her husband's last name. For example, "Mrs. William Blank" In social life would become "(Mrs.) Mary Blank" In signing letters or documents in the business world. In signing social correspondence the lady would sign her name simply "Mary Blank."

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By William F. Kirk

I WAS reading to skool about a yung man wich was named Aladdin. He was a lucky kid O. K. He found a lamp wich he cud rub & wen he rubbed it he got everything he wanted. I told Pa about it & I asked Pa to git me a lamp like that.

Gladly wud I git you such a lamp, Bobbie, sed Pa, if it cud be did, but thare aint any lamps like that in those days, sed Pa. The only lamps for a yung man to rub nowadays are his own two (2) eyes, sed Pa. If he will keep them brite and shiny on the Lookout sed Pa, I guess he will git his fortune in dew time, sed Pa.

But wen I rub my eyes in skool the teecher thinks I am a sleepy dunce, she sed so, I told Pa.

You tell her that I sed you can rub yures if you want to, sed Pa.

Wen a yung kid rubs his eyes it is a sine that he is setting up & taking notis, sed Pa.

I rubbed my eyes a lot wen I was a kid in skool, sed Pa, & look at me now, Monarch of all I survey, sed Pa.

I suppose you mean by that you are the monarch of this here home-hold, sed Ma.

Not exackly, I suppose, sed Pa.

Not at all & you know it, sed Ma. You will have to rub yure lamps a long time beefore they are brite enuff to dommynate me, sed Ma.

Thare you go, sed Pa. Bobbie A I was having a nice litel chatter, sed Pa, & you have to horn in, sed Pa.

I have to what? sed Ma.

Interrup me, sed Pa. You know I do not like to be crossed.

Oh, indeed, sed Ma, well, well, sed Ma, listen to the Sultan, sed Ma. Well, well.

I do not like to be crossed. It maiks me cross to be crossed, sed Pa.

See here, sed Ma. Wen I have a opinyun to express, sed Ma, I am going to express it.

You ought for to send it by frate, sed Pa, it is heavy enuff.

What do you mean by that speech? sed Ma.

I mean that all of yure opinyuns have grate wate with me, sed Pa.

Forgive me, deer, sed Ma. I am frade I was hasty in speeking thus to you. You are a preshus old darling, sed Ma.

I guess Pa keeps his lamps open O. K. I wonder if thare is any more lamps anywares like Aladdin found. I wud like to git one & I bet I wud rub it up! I got my hands all sore.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

I MARVEL at the painter's skill,
His deft and subtle touch;
He makes me hear the whip-poor-will and feel the rwi-light's hush.
So life-like is the scene, so true, he takes me back again to golden years when Earth was new and life was fresh as rain. His vivid touch makes long, bright days of shimmer bloom once more, and gives back Autumn with its haze and wealth of Nature's store. He shows me far-off, fabled lands and cities fair as dreams, with potent magic in his hands he paints the sunlight's gleams. How fine is mastery such art, to copy sunny skies whose smile will soothe the homesick heart and comfort troubled eyes! I sigh, "How happy I would be to paint such scenes as these, to show the lasting charm that greets the morning breeze! to lend such grace of green-wood dells, such vistas bright and fair, to weave such sweet, enduring spells upon a canvas square." I'd love to master such a style and gain some lofty

Thoughtful Nurse Advises Mentho-Laxene

"A thoroughly safety recommending Mentho-Laxene because almost marvelous results are secured in acute and stubborn coughs and colds.

"The very first dose tends to stop the spasmodic and distressing cough. The vapor, or spasm, that causes severe coughing loosens the catharrhal phlegm and clogs the running secretions of nostrils and eyes.

"You actually feel its soothing, penetrating, healing action on the membranes of the nostrils, throat and air passages; yet it positively contains no opiate, narcotic or chloroform."

Use it full strength or mix with sugar syrup into a full pint of laxative tonic cough syrup. It's better by far than plain or tar. Sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are made of pine and syrup. The syrup is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or, use clarified molasses, honey or maple syrup, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel it take right hold of a cough or cold. The cough may be loose and tight at first, but will be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm to its cause in the inner-inflamed membranes is end. This Pinex and Syrup cough remedy stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailments.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes.

Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

What has been the financial response to France's invasion of the industrial heart of Germany, a daring move which so many expected would cause consternation and demoralization?

French currency, as measured by international dealings in francs, are moving upwards; the pound sterling is at the highest points of the current year; the German mark has not gone down any more rapidly than had become its habit; while the security markets abroad and at home have betrayed no nervous excitement.

There is a feeling in the highest financial circles that, hasty and regrettable though the French action is regarded, it will tend to bring matters to a head and hasten comprehensive action leading to real settlement of the German anarchy—that France does not elect to defy the whole world by demonstrating beyond shadow of doubt that she is bent upon German territory in preference to German reparations.

Meanwhile, the financial and business community can but scrutinize events very closely, paying particular attention of fluctuations in foreign exchange rates.

At home, what has the new year brought?

* * *

Price advances have multiplied pronouncedly. Last week alone 83 of a total of 74 revisions were upward, while in the previous week 31 of a total of 53 were upward.

Cotton has touched the highest point of the season, 27¼ cents a pound.

Iron quotations have been marked up more than a dollar a ton.

Lead and tin both are higher. Corn and oats have touched the year's best figure, and wheat is higher than it was a week ago.

Rubber has continued its upward trend.

Cattle, hogs and sheep prices hold very firm.

The great automobile show held in New York was attended by unprecedented crowds and total orders placed by dealers are authoritatively declared to have been in excess of any preceding ever experienced. The better known companies declare they are away behind in delivering closed cars. A few price cuts have been offset by one or two price advances.

Textile manufacturers find that many merchants are in such need of immediate supplies that they do not stop to haggle over prices.

I hear rumors that very influential American banking interests are figuring upon offering Europe a tidy bit of corporate securities for foreign, including European countries, the moment internal conditions become tolerably propitious.

GILLETTE Razor has been showing consistent strength. Although this stock is near its record high, many expect to see it go much higher.

RESUMPTION of dividends by Copper Range will mean much to Lake Superior copper country. Its 394,373 shares are held by some 7,000 shareholders, a very large number of whom are residents of the Lake district.

CHAMPION Copper Co., an integral part of the Copper Range group, continues to be the marvel of Lake Superior copper producers. Its rock is averaging about 40 pounds per ton, production being limited by mine's ability to get workmen.

COPPER Range Co. last year produced 80,000,000 pounds of copper from the Baltic, Trimountain and Champion properties. It entered current year without a pound of unsold copper on hand and it today selling its 1923 production.

GOSSIP among copper people is that Detroit Copper & Brass Co. is the fabricating unit which it is planned to get into the projected Calumet & Hecla merger of copper companies.

ANACONDA is determined that the last copper slump shall not figure again in its history and the Calumet & Hecla merger is considering the same action. To become consumer as well as producer is considered comfortable situation.

UNITED SHOE rumors to effect preferred would be retired are generally regarded at this time as improbable.

AMERICAN Woolen's Medford experiment in making carpets for auto trade is being watched with interest.

INTERNATIONAL Cement is talked of favorably for long pull.

DAVIS-DALY is being operated on two shifts. Average production cost of its metal is said to be around 11 cents a pound.

ROBERTS & CO. 50 Broad St. New York

MARINE PFD. IS AT NEW LOW SINCE 1921

New low prices for the day were shown in many issues during the last hour in New York. The general list became irregular, with a heavy tone around noon. Money renewed at 4 per cent. Marine preferred made a new low since 1921, while new highs since 1921 were established by American Can and Postum Cereal in the forenoon.

Eager bidding for railroad stocks characterized early afternoon dealings. Advances were established of 3 points in Southern Railway preferred and 2 to 2½ for Atlantic Coast Line, St. Louis Southwestern and Western Maryland second preferred, with 1 to 1¾ for the remainder.

Weakness continued over a considerable portion of the industrial list.

United Retail Stores was depressed 3¾, while American Can, California Petroleum, Utah Copper, Studebaker and Crucible Motors moved lower.

Hartmann Company and Gimbel Brothers improved 3¾ each, Barnett Leather 3½ and Reynolds Tobacco B 2 points.

Weakness of New Haven Railroad and International Mercantile mortgages and further recovery in the St. Paul issues were the outstanding developments in bond dealings. New Haven 6s broke 1½ points as did Marine 6s 1, while St. Paul 4s of 1925 advanced 1½.

U. S. government securities were mostly lower, but the net changes were small.

New Haven Off Again; Eastern Mass. B Up

New Haven was active and at a new low on the move, off 1¼ at 13¾, on the Boston Stock Exchange. Last week's high was 20¾. The stock then rallied a bit.

Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway preferred B moved up swiftly following action of the trustees in declaring a $6 cash dividend, payable February 1 to stock of record January 24. The adjustments sold off 2 at 37.

Eastern Steamship showed fresh activity, rising 2½ points to a new high at 85½. United Shoe moved within a point range, strong and active.

Mohawk and United Drug added a point or better, while Calumet & Hecla sagged a point at 289.

URGE INTERNATIONAL PAPER'S PURCHASE

Whitney & Elwell, No. 30 State street, in a special bulletin, say of International Paper: "We recommend the immediate purchase of this stock. The company is now producing 1,900 tons daily, or at the annual rate of 693,500 tons. Reports of news print are showing the company a very satisfactory profit. The company in 1921 produced 413,019 tons of paper, compared with a total of 295,114 in 1921 and 532,000 tons in 1920. The stock is selling about 54, against a high price of 63⅞ in 1922 and a low of 43½. The book value of the common stock is estimated in excess of $200 a share."

VEILLER JOINS COSMOPOLITAN FILM STAFF

BAYARD VEILLER, playwright and author, has been engaged by the Cosmopolitan Corporation as a member of the scenario staff of that organization. Mr. Veiller is best known as the author of "Within the Law" and "The Thirteenth Chair." Recently he has been devoting most of his time to motion picture work.

Mr. Veiller joins a notable group of writers employed in the scenario department of the Cosmopolitan Corporation, of which Verne H. Porter is editor-in-chief. Among other of its famous members are Luther Reed, Frances Marion and John Lynch.

MAE MURRAY, DESIGNER

IN addition to enacting the stellar role in the forthcoming "Jazzmania," Mae Murray is taking an active part in designing the unusual settings for the picture. "Jazzmania" gives Miss Murray a wide range for her artistic ideas. The action of the picture takes place partly in a tiny kingdom in Europe, and thus novelties in setting and in costume are to be expected. The scene shifts to New York for part of the time, and here, too, lavish settings are planned.

Studio Notes

MARIE PREVOST vehemently denies the rumor that she is engaged or ever intends to marry Kenneth Harlan. According to Miss Prevost they are just good friends.

Peter B. Kyne has broken into motion pictures. After the Goldwyn Company had filmed his story, "Brothers Under the Skin," the author was called in to title it.

Pathe announces change of title of Ruth Roland's next serial release from "The Riddle of the Range" to "Haunted Valley."

TRAVEL BRIEFS
NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

The blanket of snow which overlays New England has been responsible for a tremendous exodus of New Englanders to Southern points, while it also has lured thousands of others to the mountains of New Hampshire and Vermont and even to Montreal to participate in various forms of Winter sports.

CRUISE TO TROPICS.

Among the passengers who sailed Saturday from New York on the Ulua of the United Fruit Line for a twenty-three day cruise to Havana, Cuba; Port Antonio and Kingston, Jamaica; Cristobal, Canal Zone, and Port Limon, Costa Rica, were the following from Boston: E. H. Bright, Miss Dorothy Field, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Field, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Babbidge, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manning, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Baker, Stephen Bowen and Sidney Withington.

AT AIKEN AND AUGUSTA.

With the opening of the new Bon Air-Vanderbilt Hotel at Augusta, Ga., which occurred during the week, the season at Aiken and Augusta got fairly under way with a representative attendance of prominent members of the social whirl from eastern Massachusetts. George C. Daniels, New England passenger agent of the Southern Railway, reports large advance bookings expending well into February and anticipates a larger traffic to these resorts than usual, now that the opening of the new hotel has eliminated the principal difficulty experienced in the past, namely, insufficient accommodations. The new hotel is under the same management as that of the Hotel Vanderbilt in New York, and is one of the highest class Winter resort hotels in the Southland.

NEW HOTEL AT ASHEVILLE

Many New Englanders who plan upon spending the latter part of February at Asheville, N. C., will be interested in learning that the new Kenilworth Inn will be opened on February 22.

This hotel was completed during 1917 at a cost of approximately $500,000, and was immediately taken over by the government. Since that time, and up to December 15, 1922, it was used as a convalescent hospital for disabled soldiers. It has recently refinished at a cost exceeding $200,000, and will have 350 rooms, all of which will either have private bath or will be connected with a private bath.

The golf course will not be opened, but guests will be privileged to use the courses of the Asheville Country Club or the Biltmore Forest Country Club.

The new Kenilworth Inn promises to be one of the most elaborately equipped hotels in the South. Details regarding accommodations and transportation may be obtained through George C. Daniels, New England passenger agent of the Southern Railroad.

CLUB MEETS THURSDAY.

The January meeting of the Traffic Club of New England will be held at the Hotel Brunswick on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The speakers will be A. D. Anderson, editor of the Boot and Shoe Recorder, who will talk on "You Kant Kontrol Conditions with the Same Old Stuff"; and Alfred E. Stearns, principal of Phillips Academy, Andover, whose subject will be: "The Challenge of Youth to the Older Generation." A musical entertainment will also be given.

KENNY IN CHICAGO.

John A. Kenny, traveling passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, has been in Chicago during the week, attending a "family gathering" of the passenger representatives of the road.

Booklets giving descriptions of these various parks and information regarding accommodations and transportation may be obtained by application at the office of the Burlington Route, No. 1, 351 Old South Building.

IF YOU LIKE APPLES.

One of the most novel and interesting booklets issued by any passenger department has just been published by the Northern Pacific Railway, which was known as the "Route of the Big Baked Potato" and now apparently is endeavoring to make its route equally famous for big baked apples. This railroad traverses the finest apple growing section of the Northwest. The booklet is died out in the shape of an apple, with a beautiful red apple cover. Within is listed the menu served on the dining cars of the system, featuring the big baked apple. An interesting account of the various kinds of apples is given and the booklet is profusely illustrated. To those who like apples, especially interesting is the offer to furnish free, upon application, a publication called "Apple Talk," containing fifty-five recipes for using apples. Those interested in obtaining a copy of the "Apple Booklet" should apply to C. B. Foster, general agent, passenger department, at Room 217 Old South Building.

CHORAL UNION IS HEARD IN 'ELIJAH'

By ZOE FABER.

George Sawyer Dunham, with the assistance of Marjorie Meody, soprano; Gertrude Tingley, contralto; Rialto Richardson, tenor; Ivold Herbert, Wellington Smith, baritone; a large chorus and orchestra presented the oratorio "Elijah" (Mendelssohn) last night in Symphony Hall.

Miss Moody and Miss Tingley both have good voices and sang their respective parts very well. Mr. Robinson, although his duties were rather light in comparison to the other soloists, acquitted himself well. Mr. Smith has been heard sufficiently in Boston in oratorio to require no further comment.

Herman A. Sheed was at the organ and Miss Mildred Vinton at the piano.

Mr. Dunham has trained his chorus, which has some good voices, so that they respond to his dictates quite well. There were times when precision of attack might have been better but, on the whole, the work of the chorus was satisfactory.

The audience was not as large as it probably would have been with more favorable weather conditions.

Real Estate News

The entire building at Nos. 62-64 Summer street, corner of Otis street, has been leased for a term of about fifteen years by Harold J. Coolidge et al., trustees, to the Alpha Lunch Company of Boston. The property comprises a four-story and basement building, covering 3,093 square feet of land, assessed for a total of $275,000. At the expiration of the existing leases the new tenant plans to make extensive alterations and to occupy the street floor and basement for a lunchroom. This concern operates a chain of lunch rooms in various cities in New England.

The building at Nos. 68-72 Summer street, corner of Otis street, containing 5,497 square feet on a floor, five stories in height, has been leased for a term of about thirty years to the Yankee Publishing Company. This property is assessed for $465,000. The building is occupied at this time by Jacob Dreyfus & Sons, and on the expiration of this concern's lease, the new tenant will make extensive alterations and occupy the premises for its own business.

The block, comprising three buildings, at Nos. 82-100 Summer street and 288-300 Devonshire street, owned by W. H. Slocum et al, trustees, has been leased for a long term of years to the Northeastern Publishing Company. These buildings are five stories in height and cover an area of 13,059 square feet. The total assessed value is $713,000. The present occupants are the Childs Dining Hall Company, the American Felt Company, L. E. Muran Company, H. F. French, J. P. Collins and various other tenants. On the expiration of the existing leases the new tenant proposes to make extensive alterations and use a large portion of the premises for its own business.

All of the above leases were made by C. W. Whittier & Son, Shawmut Bank Building.

NEWTON SALES.

Papers have been recorded in the sale by Charles W. Ernst to Edward W. Eaton and wife of the modern colonial house and 7,059 square feet of land at No. 116 Carver road, Newton Highlands, assessed for a total of $11,600.

Two very desirable parcels of land, situated on Washington street, Auburndale, each containing 6,000 square feet and valued at $3,800, have been sold by Margaret C. Maque to Elijah F. Henley, et al., who will erect two modern apartment houses for investment.

The attractive single storey house at No. 71 Norton street, Newton Centre, has been purchased by Vera H. Niles from Norma H. Loring. The land area is 7,500 square feet. The total assessed value is $10,000.

The colonial style two-apartment house at Nos. 11-13 Rogers street, Newton, together with a single fireproof garage and 6,250 square feet of land, assessed for a total of $12,500, has been sold by Sarah D. Miller to Gertrude O'Brien, who bought for a home and investment.

Nicholas J. Murphy, Inc., negotiated all of the above sales.

DORCHESTER AND SOUTH BOSTON

Joseph and Magdalena Grinkevich have sold to George Lekas the three tenement house at No. 32 Howell street, together with 4,000 square feet of land. The total assessed value is $5,200, of which $4,000 is on the land.

The three family brick house with 1,452 square feet of land at No. 564 East Broadway, South Boston, has been sold by E. E. and N. A. Giron to Patrick A. Foley. The total tax value is $9,600, of which $8,000 is on the building and $1,600 on the land.

Now It's the Rhine

How Soon Will It Be "the Atlantic"?

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Just now, as Lloyd George says, the firm statement and belief of the French is that the natural frontier of France is the Rhine. German, Russian, Turkish and Bulgarian women will go on having children—millions of them.

Power shifts like the particles in a kaleidoscope. How long before the Germans will be saying, "The natural frontier of Germany is the Atlantic Ocean, from the northern point of Belgium on the Zuyder Zee to that spot in France just south of Biarritz, where the Pyrenees run down to the Bay of Biscay?"

The Belgians are very cheerful now in their co-operation with France. For Americans the wise course is to look on and pray for the best results. Of one thing you may be sure: If Germany, pushed forward by Russia and the East, should again start marching into Belgium, it would not be easy to raise another army by conscription in England. And as for the Italians, they had their lesson when told after the victory that it was preposterous for them to demand the east shore of the Adriatic.

About conscripting another army here to be shipped across the Atlantic, Will Rogers says: "We are one bonus in arrears. The next war will be for cash."

Peasants Judge "Betters"

Turn About—For a Change

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

In Bulgaria peasants are sitting on the bench as judges, deciding the fate of their "betters," ministers, very rich men, etc. It seems horrible to those on trial. They say truly that peasants cannot possibly understand the difficulties, the problems of the statesman or the financier.

That's true. On the other hand, there is something in the statement of the peasants that they used to be tried by gentlemen of the upper class that didn't understand the peasant's problems, either.

Turn about occasionally is very enlightening.

It might not be a bad thing—without any trials or sentences—if railroad owners and financiers in this country could occasionally listen to farmers who hitherto have had to listen so attentively to them.

Be Careful About European Bonds

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The thing to be remembered by Americans just now is that Europe is in a very dangerous condition, and everybody here should follow events carefully. It will affect every business, industry and individual in this country if that war starts out again.

Once more, whatever else you do, BE CAREFUL ABOUT BUYING EUROPEAN BONDS. They may move from the "gilt-edged securities" department to the bargain counter any day. This same warning was given here about Russian bonds while the Czar was alive and silly American financiers were buying his bonds by the tens of millions. What are they worth now? Ask the junk dealer.

Where Are Congressmen?

Women, Recently Given the Ballot, Should Also Be Doing Something to Relieve Coal Situation

Congressman Rogers of Lowell, who has been doing splendid work in exposing the wrongs in our present coal situation, renews his charges that coal has been pouring into Canada and that Canada has received more hard coal this Winter than she received in the year of 1921, which was her banner year with respect to the importation of American hard coal. If that is so, if Canada is being glutted with coal and the people of New England are being compelled to go without it, then someone ought to be punished, and punished severely.

Where are the members of Congress from New England? We never expect anything from Senator Lodge on domestic questions when the public is being robbed. But Senator Walsh sat on the Coal Committee of the Senate, and is not afraid to tell the truth. Where is he in this situation? Where are the able men like Congressman Dallinger, Congressman Tinkham, Congressman Gallivan and Congressman Luce? Do they know that the people of New England are in danger from lack of fuel?

Our State Commissioner on the Necessaries of Life knows that this situation is not justifiable. While he does not say so publicly, anyone who runs can read the truth between the lines of his public statements. Some of the coal dealers frankly tell you that there is a conspiracy somewhere. We talked yesterday with a representative of one of the great coal-bearing railroads, and he says that they are delivering to the New England railroads and railroads running north 1,200 to 1,500 cars a day from the mines.

The truth seems to be that our New England railroads would rather continue the fight with their repairmen than to supply New England with coal; and if it is true that coal is being delivered into Canada in larger quantities than ever before, it would appear that there was more than lack of repairs in our engines behind this scarcity of coal. If the railroads have motive power enough to haul coal clear into snow-bound Canada, they can certainly haul coal to New England.

We do not want to see Canada go without coal unnecessarily. She is a good neighbor. But charity begins at home. Canada does not hesitate to give preference to her own people when they need the preference, and we do not blame her for it, but by that very sign, WE should not supply Canada until we have been at least DECENTLY supplied ourselves.

What are the newly enfranchised women doing on this question? The State is full of women's clubs. They have to live at home. Men go to work into offices and factories heated with soft coal. The women and the children are the ones chiefly who suffer and are mostly in danger from colds on account of the lack of hard coal. Why aren't they doing something to show that they are alive and that the ballot has not been given them for nothing?

Something to Think About

FISHING AND FOLLY

By Bruno Lessing

ONE of these days you may be asked to contribute to a fund to purchase the cottage that Izaak Walton occupied, in England, as a memorial to the late Julien Davies who was lawyer and trustee of the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Izaak Walton, author of "The Compleat Angler," was a famous fisherman who lived about three hundred years ago. Mr. Davies was fond of fishing, too. So you can readily see the connection.

It's a great world we live in!

Fishing is a great sport. You match your intelligence against that of a fish and if it turns out that you are smarter than the fish, you have a grand time. Its greatest advantage is that it takes you out-of-doors and imposes no strain upon your mind. So does shovelling, walking, gardening and golf.

But can you imagine a sane person undertaking to glorify a simple, silly sport to the extent of erecting a shrine to its patron saint and dedicating it as a memorial to some benevolent gentleman who liked to fish?

Why not a statute to "Babe" Ruth in every city in the land? Why not an obelisk in memory of the inventor of golf? Or an arch to the champion checker-player or the genius of tiddly-winks?

With all quarters of the world, today, calling for charity and with all the worthy objects of philanthropy that present themselves in these troublous times and with all the power that money possesses to clothe and feed and educate human beings, can you imagine anything more nonsensical than to waste contributions upon glorifying the "art" of fishing?

German Village Favors Drys

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—A test vote taken on local prohibition in the Westphalian town of Osnabrueck resulted in a 91.3 per cent. vote in favor of absolute dryness, 5,645 men and 6,724 women going dry, against only 427 men and 351 women going on record for the "wets." This result, remarkable as it may be in itself, must, however, not be taken as symptomatic for the whole of Germany.

Patriotism

Editor Boston American:

In your issue of January 11 is a conspicuous article calling attention to "alleged statements" made by me before a Brookline public school that the "American flag is nothing but a lot of stripes and stars and this is not to be associated with true patriotism when it has been in several instances the rallying ground for war." You show that naturally such a statement has disturbed members of the D. A. R. and Brigadier-General M. L. Hersey.

I write to say that this report, which must have come second or third-hand from some grammar school child, is untrue. I never said that or anything like it.

In an address on patriotism I said that "Next to religion, no word had been more abused than the beautiful, sacred word patriotism." I said that the flag was the symbol of our country as the wedding ring was the symbol of marriage; a word, the symbol for an idea, and the cross, the symbol of sacrifice; that symbols were never as important as the things for which they stood; that the real test of religion and patriotism was not a display of symbols but service. As religion is of no value unless it functions seven days in every week, so patriotism is not real and genuine unless it, too, functions all the time. I ended with an appeal for good citizenship, which is the larger part of patriotism, and that it should function not merely in time of war but 365 days of every year.

As one whose ancestors came here 250 years ago and whose forebears fought in the Revolution, I was brought up to revere the founders of our Republic and the principles for which our country stands, "liberty and justice for all." Much damage to a citizen's reputation could be saved if inquiries were made before people rush into print with criticism

THE HELPING HAND

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally

Double Couch

Editor Boston American:

I have a double sliding couch that I will give in exchange for an art square for the bedroom for the children. Also, has any one a large kitchen stove to sell for $10? G. E.

Books to Give

Editor Boston American:

I have twenty volumes of sermons by "Talmage," bound in cloth, packed just as they left the publishers, that I would like to exchange for a concertina in good condition. Will pay express charges within reasonable distance. M. F. N.

For Work at Home

Editor Boston American:

A convalescent would like to get orders for reed trays and baskets, butterfly plaques, crocheted and embroidered articles of all kinds. Prices very low. List of articles and prices sent to any address. Finest work guaranteed, and goods sent on approval. M. B.

ED. NOTE—More than 100 letters have been received in the last five days from women in straightened circumstances who would like to earn a little extra by crocheting yokes, table runners, or doing other fancy work. Anyone desiring such work done can do no better than drop a line to The Helping Hand for a list of the names.

Wants Washing Done

Editor Boston American:

I wonder if some of the readers would know of some woman who would take my washing home every week? Also of some woman I could get to come and do a little work for me and wait on me, as I am sick and need such a woman at once. MRS. F. R. B.

ED. NOTE—This is an opportunity for a woman living in or near Dorchester.

Extends Help

Editor Boston American:

I would like to help some needy person. I have a big box of woolen pieces, all sizes, to make some nice quilts, so if you know of anyone that would like them I would gladi give them if they will call. MISS F. M.

ED. NOTE—I know these will come in handy somewhere.

Mirrors New Aid to Education

LIMA, O., Jan. 15.—The placing of a looking glass in every schoolroom is advocated my Dr. John J. Sutton, Allen County Health Commissioner.

"A looking-glass has a distinct educational value," said Dr. Sutton. "Children who are frequently reprimanded for their untidiness and uncleanliness, scarcely ever see themselves, thus losing the strong personal incentive to improvement which they might have if they had the opportunity of contrasting their own untidy appearance with the neatness displayed by their school fellows."

PEN WORKING MORE THAN SWORD IN RUHR TANGLE

By HERBERT KAUFMAN

THE stock ticker isn't worrying about the row in the Ruhr. Financiers know. Business has the secret ear of diplomacy. Markets do not advance steadily in the shadow of catastrophe. Decisive action is laconic; nations deliver their ultimatums in few words. There's too much talk crowding the cables to alarm trained observers.

French politics has made a demagogue gesture, the sword may be in one hand, but the other is redrafting demands. Watch the pen, that is the real negotiator.

Paris has already arrived at a tentative agreement with German mine owners, meanwhile advancing money to complete their payrolls. This means the beginning of the end.

Billions are neither to be gained or relinquished without stubborn bargaining, but haggling is the smoke of compromise; creditors always insist upon more than they hope to receive and debtors habitually offer less than they expect to pay.

Bankers who are experts at such games seem assured of the outcome. They've just loaned Mr. Armour one hundred and twenty millions.

Let George Do It

IF you're in the least degree uncertain of what's happening, get a copy of the Sunday Advertiser and let George explain it. Don't be afraid that you won't understand his language. Men who can't make themselves clear to everybody don't remain long in charge of enterprises like the British Empire. Clear thinking is done with simple words and brief sentences. This Welshman can say more in less space and pack a bigger phase into a tight phrase than any writer you know.

His articles are far more important than his memoirs are apt to prove. Memoirs are generally self-justifications—portraits of motives and policies carefully posed for history. Experts take autobiography with a dash of salt.

How George Did It

LLOYD GEORGE controlled British opinion by thinking faster within the time limit than the other fellow. He commanded situations by his command of facts and language—the language of plain people, which is the plainest form of speech. The authors of the Bible had the same knack. Grand eloquence smothers ideas and ideals.

You'll be surprised when he tells you that the allies imposed no definite reparations on the German people—likewise by his complete endorsement of Bonar Law's Ruhr policy. Bonar Law, remember, is the man who put him out of office. (Washington please note.)

Our politicians weaken confidence in all parties by foolishly refusing to concede any competence to the opposition. When we have more political honesty in America there will be fewer reversals of national policy and less economic disturbances attending the change of administrations.

The Pig's Eye

BUT let's turn from map to man-patching.

The reconstruction of humans is important, too. Society can't meet its mounting overhead with incompetent, devitalized and defective folk. It costs less to make them over than to take them over. Nature has lately been showing where to find the repair parts. Ponce de Leon had the right idea, but got on the wrong track.

From skin-grafting to blood transfusion—from bone to gland transplanting—always nearer, nearer, nearer! Yesterday a Paterson physician announced that he would sew a pig's cornea on a boy's injured eye. He did it once before, and the scheme worked for two years. Probably this experiment won't quite succeed, either, but if the principle is sound the technique will come. When possibility is established, achievement is a mere matter of time. Wait a while and we'll see—the blindest of us.

Still the Stillmans

WHAT the world can't see, however, is the justice of thousand-dollar-a-day incomes for non-producers. Which brings the Stillmans back into print. Mrs. Stillman insists that her family needs $120,000 a year to live. Mr. Stillman complains that his investments only yield three hundred and sixty odd thousands per annum. Here's hopeless blindness.

More Important People

NOW for some people of real importance. John Singer Sargent, an American painter, is the first living artist to have his works admitted to the National Gallery in London. Nine portraits at one swoop. The pictures thus sealed for immortality are those of Asher Wertheimer, his wife and children. Wertheimer was an art dealer. Kings, dukes and other more or less celebrities were also Sargent's patrons, but must of them will be lost to memory when Wertheimers are "looking down upon the centuries." Wertheimer didn't have a thousand dollars a day.

The World's Greatest Salesman

HARRY ROSEN, the world's greatest salesman, is dead. He entered a profession reputed to be the last resort of the failure-at-everything-else and left behind a record of earnings greater than that ever attained by anybody in any field of work.

Rosen was not even an official in the corporations he served. He was to the end just an insurance agent. His annual earnings are variously estimated at from $300,000 to $500,000. He wrote at least thirty million-dollar policies. He was not a college man—he was not even a native citizen.

Another proof that this is still a land of boundless opportunity.

Here's a precious secret: He kept at it. Without social or financial influence he made his place. He was the child of an eighty-seven-year-old father—that's important to note, too. His last years were devastated by an incurable malady, but illness did not diminish his pace nor modify his ambition.

His wife and son got his cash; the country inherits more—an inspiring example.

One more thought—incompetence is hereby deprived of many favorable alibis.
